At the very outset, I gratefully acknowledge the contribution of my supervisor Dr Sajal Nag, Reader and Head, Department of History, Assam University, who has been so kind in guiding me in every stage of this work. It will not be out of context to mention here, that, despite all apprehensions, at times even opposition from my kith and kin after the major head injury of mine in November 1999, Dr Nag continued to repose full confidence in me with his inspiring words but for which the work would not have seen the light of the day; – for which act of his greatness I have no word of gratitude.

I am equally grateful to Shri M Parwez, Lecturer in History, Assam University for providing all kinds of support during the research work. My indebtedness to him is beyond measure and words shall always fall short to acknowledge the same in right fervour and spirit.

I also acknowledge the suggestions given by Professor N Sudhakar Rao and Dr Ashesh Das to improve the work, during my pre-submission seminar. I am happy to include their suggestions in the work.
I am also thankful to Dr R K De, Reader in History, Assam University, who has drawn my attention towards some important sources.

I am beholden to Professor J K Samal, Dean, School of Social Sciences, Assam University for providing every support.

I am greatly indebted to my senior friend Shri Abhijit Choudhury, Senior Lecturer in History, St. Edmond’s College, Shillong who has been my another pillar of strength and encouragement all through the work. He has provided the resources at his disposal freely and took all pains to discuss various aspects of the present work. I am also obliged to his wife madam Shipra Choudhury, who sat all through the long session of discussion.

My sincere thanks are due to my friends Mr Mahitosh Chakraborty, Mrs Babli Ghosh, Mr Arun Gupta, Mr Bikash Bhattacharjee, Mr Ranendranarayan Adhyapak, Mr Debojyoti Chakraborty, Mr Dhurrajoti Bhattacharjee, Mr Joydeep Bhattacharjee and Mr Vinayak Dutta who have helped me in various ways.

I am also thankful to my friends Mr Gaur Bhattacharjee, Mr Hirak Bhattacharjee, Mr Dipak Choudhury, Mr Dhiman Bhattacharjee and Mr Arnab Bhattacharjee for providing me invaluable help during my stay at Kolkata for collecting research materials from various libraries and archives.

I also appreciate the efforts of Pinak who has taken great pain in typing the manuscript despite falling ill.

These are few names I have mentioned while others who helped me in multiple ways would go unnamed.

However, I gratefully acknowledge the cooperation and assistance provided by the National Library, Kolkata, the Geological Survey of India, Central Library, Kolkata, the Asiatic Society Library, Kolkata, Assam State Archives, Dispur, Gauhati University Library, GSI Library, Shillong, NEHU Library, Shillong, NRC Library, Shillong, Central Seismological Observatory Library, Upper Shillong, Assam University Library and Departmental Library of History, Assam University.

Last but not the least, I am also thankful to my maternal uncle Shri Rishi Kumar Bhattacharjee and maternal aunt Smt. Sadhana Bhattacharjee for providing me constant support during the work.

While my debts, both general and specific are many in a venture of this sort, I accept the sole responsibility for any error that might have inadvertently crept into this work.

Shyamananda Bhattacharjee