ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

In conduction of my study on "CONCEPT OF ESPIONAGE IN KAUTILĪYA ARTHASĀSTRA: ITS RELEVANCE TO PRESENT ERA", I remain eternally indebted to many endearing individuals and institutions whom I wish to acknowledge here.

My quest took shape due to the boundless motivation and zeal of my respected Supervisor, Prof. Swapna Devi, Dean, School Of Languages and Head, Dept. of Sanskrit, Assam University, Silchar, who reposed her trust and confidence in my enterprise and constantly inspired and guided me in my work. Equally supportive, tolerant and resourceful was my Co-Supervisor, Dr. Projit Palit, Reader, Dept. of History, Assam University, Silchar, who directed the interdisciplinary perspective of the study with profound insight. Without their cherished erudition and empathy, it would have been utterly impossible on my part to pursue the study and complete it on time.

I am enormously thankful to the librarians of a) Assam University, Silchar b) Jawaharlal Nehru University, Lal Bahadur Shastri Rashtriya Sanskrit Vidyapeeth, Institute for Defence Studies and Analyses, Col. Pyaralal Memorial USI Library, Indian Council of Social Science Research, Central Secretarial Library, Tulsi Sadan Library, Delhi c) Asiatic Society, National Library, Centre for Studies in Social Sciences, Kolkata and d) Women’s College, Silchar. They have been of immense help by allowing me to consult their books, journals, official gazettes and records, internet servers, online-catalogue, inter-library loan and other services. The librarian and staff of Cachar College, Silchar, where I am employed presently deserve sincere appreciation for allowing me to utilize their resources.

I must express my gratitude to Dr. Sukhamoy Bhattacharya, doyen of Sanskritic studies in the Barak Valley, for his learned counsel and approval which helped me assemble my findings at various stages of my study. I must thank Dr. Debasis Kar, Principal, Cachar College, for encouraging my endeavor constantly.

I am thankful to the proprietor and staff of M/S S-Cube, Silchar, for their untiring efforts in printing my thesis.

Finally, I feel euphoric in extending my deep gratitude to my husband, Shri Sanjay Dutta Majumder and all other members of my family for their selfless, moral and material support without which my efforts would be futile.

Dated 17-09-2010

SHILPI DUTTA MAJUMDER

Silchar

N S Avenue, Silchar.