CHAPTER

1. INTRODUCTION

1. Concept of Vocational Choice

2. Theories of Vocational Choice
   (a) Accident theories
   (b) Economic theories
   (c) Cultural and sociological theories.
      (i) Culture
      (ii) Subculture
      (iii) Community
      (iv) School
      (v) Family
   (d) Psychological theories
      Personality theories
      (a) Psychoanalytic theories
      (b) Need theories
      (c) Hoppock's Composite theory
      (d) Holland's Personality theory
   (e) Developmental theories
      (i) Super theory
      (ii) Ginzberg theory
   (f) Tiedman's theory
   (g) Learning theories
   (h) Trait & Factor theories

3. Evaluation of Theories
II REVIEW OF LITERATURE

1. Vocational choice and Environmental factors.
2. Vocational choice and Psychological factors.
   (a) Intelligence and Vocational Choice
   (b) Personality and Vocational Choice.
   (c) nAch and Vocational Choice.
   (d) Locus of Control and Vocational Choice.
   (e) Socio-economic Status and Vocational Choice.
   (f) Academic Achievement and Vocational Choice.

III AIMS AND HYPOTHESES

1. Need for the study
2. Aims of the study.
3. Hypotheses
   (a) Vocational choice patterns of Undergraduate students.
   (b) Vocational Choice and Intelligence.
   (c) Vocational Choice and Personality.
   (d) Vocational Choice and nAch.
   (e) Vocational Choice and Locus of Control.
   (f) Vocational Choice and Socio-economic Status.
   (g) Vocational Choice and Academic Achievement.
   (h) Intelligence, Personality, nAch, Locus of Control, S.E.S. & Academic Achievement as predictors of Vocational Choices.
IV METHOD AND PROCEDURE

1. Sample
2. Tools
   (a) Standard Progressive Matrices
   (b) P.E.N. (Personality)
   (c) nAch
   (d) I-E Locus of Control
   (e) Socio-economic-status
   (f) Semantic Differential Scale of Occupational Choice.

3. Collection of Data

V RESULTS

1. Raw Data
2. Means and Standard Deviations
3. Graphic Representations
4. t-ratios
5. 2 x 2 Analysis of Variance
6. Graphic Representations of ANOVA
7. Correlational Analysis
8. Factor Analysis
9. Multiple Correlations and Step-up Regression Equation.

VI DISCUSSION OF RESULTS

1. Vocational Choices of Rural Students.
2. Vocational Choices of Urban Students.
3. Vocational Choices of Female Students.
4. Vocational Choices of Male Students.
5. Vocational Choice and Intelligence.
6. Vocational Choice and Personality.
   (a) Vocational Choices and Psychoticism.
   (b) Vocational Choices and Neuroticism.
   (c) Vocational Choices and Extraversion
7. Vocational Choice and nAch.
8. Vocational Choice and Locus of Control.
10. Vocational Choice and Academic Achievement.

VII SUMMARY AND CONCLUSIONS ................... 185-191

BIBLIOGRAPHY ........................................ 192-212

APPENDIX ..............................................
Raw Data for Intelligence, Personality, nAch, Locus of Control, Socio-Economic Status Academic Achievement and Vocational Choices of Rural, Urban, Male and Female Undergraduates.