ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

First and foremost, I would like to thank my thesis supervisor, Professor K. Mohankumar, who provided the motivation and direction for this work. The freedom to pursue a number of my own ideas was invaluable in the development of my thesis. I express my sincere and deep admiration for his patience and enthusiasm to make me write my research outputs, inspite of his busy academic and administrative schedules. Thanks also to my thesis committee members: Prof. H. S. Ram Mohan and Dr. K. R. Santosh for their time and expertise. I thank Dr. K. R. Santosh, Head of the Department for providing all the facilities for my research, Dr. C. A. Babu, Dr. Madhu V. and Sri. B. Chakrapani for constantly giving valuable advices through out.

Prof. P.V. Joseph, Professor of Emeritus, Department of Atmospheric Sciences, helped me at several discussion of the research topic. I express my sincere gratitude to him also. All the teachers were helpful during the course of my work. I would like to thank all the office staff of the Department, especially Dr. Sreedevi M. G. and Mr. Yasodharan for their timely help in many regard.

Acknowledgements are due to IMD, ECMWF and NCEP for providing data for carrying out my work. I thank University Grants Commission, India and Cochin University of Science and Technology for providing financial support for research. Dr. D. S. Pai from India Meteorological Department and Prof. Jon Ahlquist from Florida State University had helped a lot in clearing my doubts on statistical and mathematical techniques. Thanks also to Johnson Zacharia, Venu G. Nair and Dr. Bindu G. for many rewarding discussions. I would also like to thank Dr. Siji Kumar, Dr. Prince Xavier, Dr. Vinu K. Valsala, Dr. Bijoy Thompson, Dr. Roxy, Ms. Preethi and Dr. Deepa for sharing their views, reprints of publications and discussions. I would express my sincere gratitude to all the Research Scholars of the Department for the amicable ambience we had together. The help provided by Sandeep, Nithin, Sivaprasad, Anila, Resmi and Smitha during the final hours were remembered.

Finally, I am thankful my family who mean more to me I can express. My parents, who have been so steadfastly supportive that I hardly even noticed it and thankfully allowed me to take ample time; my sisters Rajasree and Rajani have been a constant support for these years. Last, I would like to thank my friend Lorna and her family for their prayers and wishes.

Above all, I reminisce God's grace too.
