ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Whatever I found and write down in my research work is worth nothing to God. My first and foremost thanks and praise to the Lord Almighty Jesus Christ for being my strength and guide in the writing of this thesis. Without Him, I would not have had the wisdom or the physical ability to do so.

The words of acknowledgment are dedicated to the ones without whom I would not have arrived here. To my parents, Mr. N. Chellappa Iyyapillai and Mrs. D. Ruby Rathana kala, for my education, the unconditional love, support in each step of the way and for not allowing me to quit at any time and specially for reminding me that being strong and brave in life goes far beyond from finishing a Ph.D.

I owe my deepest gratitude to my supervisor Dr. S. Theodore David Manickam for suggesting the field of investigation, active guidance, constant motivation, unflinching support, profound understanding and patience during the course of this work. I have always been able to rely on your help. I am also very grateful to you for being such a readily approachable supervisor. Your advice has not only helped carry me through my research but will always be remembered as I continue my scientific career. Finally, I would like to dedicate this thesis to my grandparents (Late) Mr. D. David Sundar and (Late) Mrs. Alice Kanagamani Selvanayagam. I have been extremely fortunate in my life to have grandparents who have shown me unconditional love and support. The relationships and bonds that I have with my grandparents hold an enormous amount of meaning to me. I admire them for all of their accomplishments in life, for their independence, for their hierarchical role in our family, and for all of the knowledge and wisdom that they have passed on to their grandchildren over the years. Personally, my grandparents have played an important role in the development of my identity and shaping the individual that I am today. I tenderly keep in mind their noble sacrificial life and their enormous efforts with pain, tears and unceasing prayers which have enabled me to reach the present position in life.

My special thanks to Mr. R. Robert, Robert Xerox, Palayamkottai for making this dissertation presentable, neat and pleasing to the eye.

My apologies for those I have forgotten, but not omitted.
