ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The award of Rajiv Gandhi National Fellowship (2008-2013) has been a blessing for me. This work wouldn’t have been possible had I not been awarded the fellowship, so I take the opportunity to express my heartfelt gratitude to the Ministry of Tribal Affairs, Govt. of India and the UGC, New Delhi, the implementing agency of the award.

I wish to express my most sincere appreciation to Professor Jyotiprakash Tamuli, my supervisor and Head, department of Linguistics, Gauhati University for the amount of time and wisdom he has shared with me throughout the entire process of my research work. In fact, it was due to his honest persistence and motivation that I have been able to enter into the field of Linguistics research, got the right kind of exposure and training, and reached the level of what I am today. I owe him an enormous debt of gratitude. I would also like to offer my special thanks to Prof. Anita Tamuli, Head, department of English Language Teaching, Gauhati University for her constant support and encouragement during the period of my research.

The regular visit of many foreign scholars in the Gauhati University Linguistics and ELT departments and the opportunity to work with them closely inspired me a lot since the time I was doing my MA back in 2002-03. The first foreign linguist I had the opportunity to work very closely with is Dr Stephen Morey, La Trobe University, Australia. I owe a huge debt to Dr Morey for giving me practical training on linguistic fieldwork back in 2004, for providing me with many useful materials on Bodo-Garo languages and for his words of encouragement. I also owe a special debt of gratitude to Professor Scott DeLancey, University of Oregon, USA for giving me a chance to work closely with him on a grammar project undertaken by him. This association has been like a valuable training for me on how to do Tibeto-Burman linguistics and I am grateful to him for his invaluable guidance and insightful comments on my work. I take the opportunity to express my gratitude to Prof. Robbins Burling, University of Michigan, USA for sharing his ideas with me on certain aspect of my work through email and personal contacts.

I also like to offer special thanks to Liza Guts of the Summer Institute of Linguistics (SIL) International for making me familiar with Fieldworks Language Explorer (FLE) programme through a workshop in 2009 in the Linguistics department of Gauhati University. I also take the opportunity to thank Dr Robert Litteral and Jessie Glover, multi-lingual education consultants (SIL International) for giving me an opportunity to closely work with them and for helping me to participate and facilitate in different community based teachers’ training programmes and material production workshops during the last five years. I would also like to offer special thanks to Amos Teo (Australian National University) for training me in Linguistics Field Method during 2013 in the Linguistics department of Gauhati University.

I should also like to acknowledge my indebtedness to my teachers Dr Runima Choudhary and Dr Padmini Boruah for their support and encouragement.

I happily acknowledge the warm friendship and encouragement of my friends in the department of Linguistics, Gauhati University. First, I would like to thank Krishna Boro for offering his valuable time and skill for reading and re-reading the draft, giving insightful and critical comments to my work and assisting me in the fieldwork at various times. I also take this opportunity to thank Dr Gitanjali Bez, Bibha, Asifa, Mouchumi, Kishor, Himadri and Pinky for their encouragement and sympathetic words of support. I also take the opportunity to thank Kukil and Pratima for helping me in their capacities at various times.

I should be thankful to Bihung Brahma of CIT, Kokrajhar for his assistance while doing fieldwork in Kokrajhar area and for his encouragement and constant support. I also offer special thanks to Sanendra Basumatary and family who offered me help at various times during fieldwork in Bishmuri area in the Kokrajhar district. I also take the opportunity to thank Gajen Hazoary, Nareswar Narzary and Mahendra Nath Boro for their concern about my work and for their words of encouragement. It won’t be possible to name all the language resource people from different places who kindly offered language data for this work – I sincerely offer my heartfelt gratitude to all of them.

I would also like to express my gratitude to several members of my extended family – Khargeswar, Anil, Hewali and Kamle for helping my family in many ways during this period away from home. Within my own family, I offer my deepest gratitude to my wife Kiran for shouldering the household responsibilities. Our young daughters Dhriti and Thunlai also deserve gratitude for their patience and understanding while their papa is away from home. I feel guilty for not being very helpful to them in their studies during this period.

I should have been able to incorporate all the wise and insightful suggestions of the scholars in this work which, I am sure, I could not. I am responsible for any errors and inaccuracies in this work.
