Acknowledgement

The present study attempts to understand the implementation of Crop Loan and Crop Insurance Policy, by Pune District Central Cooperative Bank. Based on the survey of the seven crops, the author has made certain observations and suggestions, which may have some bearing on Agriculture Credit Policy of Pune District.

At the outset, the author acknowledges with gratitude, the UGC, for granting him, the Fellowship for two years, under Faculty Improvement Programme, to carry out this study. I am indebted to the management of Poona Diocesan Educational Society, for granting me leave for the study.

My respected Principal Dr. Cleophas P. Rodrigues, who played the unique role of “Friend, Philosopher and guide”, he not only motivated me to do my Ph.D, but was a source of inspiration. Even though he gave me adequate freedom, to do my study, he was instrumental in giving me proper path and guiding me at an appropriate junction. It was because of his timely, valuable advice and guidance; I was able to complete my study.

I am highly indebted to the Managing Director and other officers of the Pune District Central Cooperative Bank, for their valuable cooperation. Special mention must be made of Mr. Raju Pawar, Mr. Ubale, Mr. Patil (of MSCB), the Branch Managers of the places surveyed, and the farmers.

The colleagues, friends need to be acknowledged for their unstinted support all along. In particular, Dr. M. G. Gonsalves (vice principal of Vidya Bhavan College of Commerce), Prof B. P. Jadhav, Prof Sunil Jadhav, Prof Samuel Rao, other staff members of Vidya Bhavan College, my friends, Mr. Vilas Bhingare from (KDCC). Mr. Amarsingh Bhaisere, Prof. Mathew .C. and Mr. Yogesh Patel.

The staff of Gokhale Institute Library and Library of R.B.I. College of Agriculture Banking.

Last, but not the least, my dear brothers, Prabhakar and Ramakrishna, my wife Ushadevi, my sons, Mohan and Rohan my sister Sheela Kamble, and my students Mahesh Kakulla, Rohit Kumbhar, Preethi .G, Rennes Mathew, Shruti Chavan and Rinto Joseph who have helped me at different stages in the process of my research work.
