The thesis "Śaṭṭhala in Viśisṭivimśa - A Philosophical Study", aims at making a philosophical analysis of the important concepts like Śaṭṭhala, Mīmāṃsikaraṇa, Śūnya, Prakṛti, Maya and other concepts in the light of the Nyāgamas and Vaiśeṣika literature. In doing so it gives a metaphysical and epistemological analysis of the Śaṭṭhala siddhānta by making a comparative study of similar concepts in other systems of Indian philosophy. The thesis gives a new philosophical interpretation of Śaṭṭhala siddhānta; and, in this sense, it is an original contribution.

The study could not be precise and scientific but for the wise and timely suggestions of Dr. P. G. Kalghatgi in the arduous task of working on the Śaṭṭhala sāṃśma from the modern point of research where no student of philosophy has worked so far. The author of the thesis owes much to Dr. P. G. Kalghatgi who is his guide.

The author expresses his regard to P. H. Sanāśwījī Sri Kumāraswāmī who is a source of inspiration and whose blessings created in him a zeal to study deeply the philosophy of the school. The author expresses his deep sense of gratitude to Dr. H.C. Hiremath, Director of the Institute of Kannada Studies of Karnataka University and Dr. M.S. Sunakpur, Professor in Vīrāsaiva literature in the same Institute for their kind encouragement. The author's thanks are also due to Dr. Govindaswamy, Dean, Institute for Indic Studies of Kurukshetra University—a specialist in Nyāya who took the troubles of going through the research work whenever he was requested. Dr. K. Krishnamoorthy, Professor and Head of the Department of Sanskrit of Karnataka University has also encouraged him to make a deep study of Indian logic. Prof. K.J. Shah, now the National Fellow in Philosophy, has been kind enough to recommend books in connection with the study of Modern Western metaphysics and Nyāya Nyāya.

The author of the thesis expresses his sense of gratitude to Sri B.T. Shetter, Prof. K.S. Narayanaswamy and Dr. Shankar Mokashi who spared their valuable time to give him their valuable suggestions.
