The Origin, Development, Characteristics and Trends of Drama in the Panjab

TABLE OF CONTENTS

INTRODUCTORY

CHAPTER I

PART I

INDUS VALLEY CIVILIZATION AND DRAMA.

Geographical boundaries of the Panjab, Stone Age and primitive magic dance, Bronze age, uniform culture, Sumerian and Iranian kinship, a rich community life, strong agrarian base, the Harappa Script, question of drama and theatre, art of dancing, religion of the people, summing up, in the Capitals, gateway to Harappa citadel, processional ceremonies and drama, Indus Valley passion play, YATRA in the pre-historic Panjab, 1 - 17

CHAPTER II

DRAMA OF THE VEDIC AND POST VEDIC TIMES.

Panjab, the earliest abode of the Aryans, artless drama of the Vedic times, YATRA tradition, SANG of the Panjab, Shailooks, Sutas and Kushinivas, sacrificial ceremonies, the Vedic dialogues, later Vedic ritual, Katyana's Shrout Sutra, Soma sacrifices, Indian Yagyans and the Greeks, conditions in the Panjab, Natak - the fifth Veda, 18 - 34

CHAPTER III

GENESIS OF DRAMA IN THE PANJAB.

Testimony of Natya Shastra, the times of Asura Prajya, from open to closed stage, drama as an alternative to ritual, Shudra actors; lines of dual development, Natya Shastra is dateless lack of archaeological data, the meaning of Natak, consideration of Tretya Yuga, Faumàn age divisions, age of Prakrits, references to dramatic art, inscription of Jogimara, Indo-Greek period, 35 - 56

CHAPTER IV

GREEK INFLUENCES ON PANJAB DRAMA.

Socio-political Panjab before the Greeks, Gandhara - the preserve of Sanskrit, Persian contact, land of war dances, Alexander's invasion and after, Mauryan times. No drama in Ashokan times, cultural identity of Panjab, Indo-Greeks in the Panjab, two centuries of Indo-Greeks, Yavana kingdoms, non-Hellenistic factors making for Greek influence; Greek settlements in the Panjab, linguistic position, formative Greek mime, mime is non-literary, consideration of the serious Greek drama,
YAVINILKA discussed, raised platform stage question of romantic tragedi-comedy conception of Greek comedy, similar production conventions, birth of a new class of actors in the Panjab, advent of amalgamated dramatic form, flowering of the Indian classical drama, two-fold division of plays, light comedy in the Panjab, pre-classical tragic drama in the Panjab, Panjab, the land of grand and violent styles.

CHAPTER V

BIRTH OF CLASSICAL DRAMA IN THE PANJAB.

Post Mauryan Panjab, revival of Sanskrit, Panjab and Sanskrit learning, temple drama and Ashva Ghaosa.

CHAPTER VI

AFTER ASHVA GHAOSA.

Panjab without drama, king Harsha of Sthaneswara, Huna devastation and its aftermath.

CHAPTER VII

MUSLIM RULE IN THE PANJAB AND LOSS OF DRAMA.

Contact with militant Islam, cultural break in the Panjab, first signs of cultural resurrection, social division, failure of the integration forces, religious conditions, linguistic development, new Sikh movement and its significance, fusion process at work, new popular cultural revival, lack of drama and its causes, dominance of the puritan sentiment, Hamuman Hatak, Bachittar Hatak, Farbodhachandrodhay; strife torn Panjab in the 16th century, drama loses its scope, dramatic poetry of Hiz, persistence of some popular forms.

CHAPTER VIII

THE SIKH PERIOD.

New Sikh aristocracy, dancing prostitute to the fore, Sikh prejudice against religious drama, Ras Leela in disfavour, Leela parties from outside, new festival celebrations, Brij Bhasha, Sikh scholarship of the saintly orders, anti-drama trend reinforced, VAR histrionics and NAAD.

59 - 110

111 - 121

122 - 129

130 - 151

152 - 161
CHAPTER XI
PANJABI DRAMA COMES TO ITS OWN.

Birth pangs of Panjabi drama, Panjabi stage is born, first Panjabi play that was staged, Hamda’s role, early contemporaries of Nanda, Brij Lal Shastri, Kirpa Sagar, Sawa Budh Singh Balwant Singh, Dr. Mohan Singh, Man Singh, Gurbux Singh Bar-at-Law, some other attempts.

271 - 306

CHAPTER XII
PANJABI DRAMA—MODERN PHASE.

307 - 334

CHAPTER XIII
PANJABI DRAMA AND STAGE—THE LATEST PHASE.

Surjit Singh Sethi, Kapoor Singh Ghumman, Jagdish Singh Yohre, Piara Singh Bhogal, Guvarcharan Singh Jasuja, Marsaran Singh, some other playwrights.

Sanskrit dramas in Panjabi, some more attempts, miscellaneous.

335 - 345

CHAPTER XIV
LITERARY URDU DRAMA IN THE PANJAB.

Social responsibility and the serious drama, Brahmmand of Kanwar Sen, Hakim Ahmed Shujab and the drama of transition, the new trend and Amarkali of Taj, Communal factor, Munshi Ahmed Husain and Hush Ka Bazar, translations, losing battle with the film.

346 - 354

CHAPTER XV
AMATEUR URDU DRAMA AND THE MEDIA.

Lahore scene, Mrs. Norah Richards’ contribution, amateur Leela Clubs, radio in the field, radio play, one-actor and the monthly Journal, Sa-adit Hasan Minto, Rajinder Singh Bedi Krishan Chander, Ashok and Rashid, Song and Drama Publicity.

355 - 365

CHAPTER XVI
HINDI DRAMA IN THE PANJAB—EARLY PHASE.

Early phase, Parsi theatre and Hindi drama, Company theatre and Ram Leela, Aga Hashar Kashmiri, Kishan Chand Zeba.

366 - 373
CHAPTER XVII

LITERARY HINDI DRAMA IN THE PANJAB.

Sudarshan, the general scene, tendency away from the Pauranic theme, Hindi opera, drama of Prasad tradition, middle age drama, Pauranic legend, realistic school, some more problem plays, verse plays, one-actor to the front, radio play.

CHAPTER XVIII

OPERA MOVEMENT IN THE PANJAB.

Initiation at Preet Nagar, GIDDHA, Sheila Bhatia the founder, People's Theatre Movement, Birth of Panjabi Opera Panjabi Art Theatre, Tara Singh Gham and his colleagues of Bhatinda, Joginder Bahirla, 'Jatti Hir' by Khailli.

CHAPTER XIX

CURRENT SCENE

Bibliography