Acknowledgement

At the very outset, I take the privilege to express my deep sense of gratitude to Prof. Goutam Biswas of Philosophy Department, Assam University who has been so kind and generous in accepting me as one of his research scholars. It is, indeed, an enlightening experience for me to work under a man of scholastic personality like him. His caring guidance and supervision, constant persuasion and unstinted support have enthused and encouraged me to come up with this thesis.

Another perennial source of inspiration and instruction for me is my joint supervisor Dr. Prasenjit Biswas, Reader, Department of Philosophy NEHU, Shillong, who has made me well aware of the world of Continental Philosophy and Philosophy of Literature and made himself available physically or telephonically to give me necessary suggestions inspite of having his hectic academic schedules. My discourses with him on different critical thoughts and ideas of philosophy have been of immense benefit for which I am greatly indebted to him.

It would be an opportunity for me to offer my thanks to Prof. Topodhir Bhattacharjee, the present Vice-Chancellor, Assam University for guiding me to formulate some of the issues related to Partition and Existentialism. It helped me in broadening the scope of my work. I am ever grateful to him for his generous inspiration and encouraging words.

I also have exclusive sense of indebtedness to Prof. V.C. Thomas of Pondicherry University and Prof. S.A. Shaida former Prof. of IIT Kanpur from whom I had my primary lessons on different philosophical discourses during their days in the Assam University capitalising which I have comfortably sojourned in the realm of Philosophy. My deepest regards and gratitude to these two stalwarts in the field of philosophy of our country.

Prof. Nirmal Kanti Bhattacharjee, Director, K.K. Birla Foundation, New Delhi, a source of my inspiration in my troubled times, has mentored me with all possible supports for which I have come to this stage of my research work today and for this I express my gratitude to him.

It would be a daunting task to express my intellectual debt to Urvashi Butalia who was not only kind enough in giving me time for discussion but also helped me in formulating a comprehensive framework for this PhD. Thesis. I owe a lot for all that to the great writer.

I am especially thankful to Dr. Subhra Nag, Head, Department of Philosophy, Assam University who has always been very lavish in lending her moral support to me by her words of appreciation. I also express my gratitude to all the faculty members of the Department of Philosophy, Assam University.

My heart feels like to express gratitude to my intellectual friends and philosopher like Prof. N.B. Biswas, Dean, School of Humanities, A.U., Prof. Ranju Dhamala of Political Science Department, AU, Dr. Paragmani Sharma former Head, Department of English, A.U., Dr. Kishore Bhattacharjee, Folklore Department, Gauhati University, Prof. Abhik Gupta Department of Ecology & Environmental Science A.U., Prof. Debasish Chakraborty, Department of Mass Communication A.U. who emboldened my spirit with their encouraging words and valuable suggestions.

It will be travesty of truth if I donot acknowledge the all out help and cooperation of Dr. Sukalpa Bhattacharjee, Reader, Deptt of English NEHU, Shillong for gathering books, journals and research materials from various sources depending on which I have developed this Ph.D. dissertation.

Honestly enough, I take the opportunity to offer my thanks to Prof. Partha Sarathi Chanda, the present Principal of Gurucharan College, Silchar and his predecessors particularly Dr. B. B. Das, at present, Academic Consultant, Diphu Campus of Assam University who have always extended their helping hands in all possible ways to carry on my research work.

I have exclusive feeling of thankfulness to Sriman Sumit Debnath, who have always been readily available with his laptop to type the writeup materials and prepare the CDs from time to time. My thanks are also due to Sri Jayanta Das and also to the staff of the Assam University library and other Administrative staff of the University who have always been very prompt and responsive in doing official works at different levels from time to time.

My wife Jayashree and my daughter Sreshtha have always kept me free from all engagements and anxieties of domestic life to carry on my research work unperturbed years together and for this co-operation and lending moral support to me I am thankful to both of them.

Finally, I will be untrue to my conscience if I do not extend my gratitude to Sri Punyapriyo Choudhury, Proprietor, Silchar Sungraphics, Silchar, who alongwith his technical and non-technical staff, has taken all care to give this thesis a neat and smart look.

\[ (\text{Dipankar Kar}) \]
Dated : Silchar
The 20th February 2008

Regn. No. 47100020 of 2004-05
of Assam University