ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I would like to express my deepest gratitude to my supervisor Dr. Goutam Biswas, Professor, Department of Philosophy, Assam University, Silchar, for the faith that he has unwaveringly placed in me during these two and half years. He has given my stray thoughts a condensed shape. His encouraging words have always been a source of inspiration and motivation for me. He has guided and helped me in my work not only with wisdom and patience, but with guardianship concern. His direction, recommendations and suggestions have been invaluable in shaping up my work. Words are inadequate to express my thanks to him.

I would also like to express my indebtedness to my Co-supervisor Dr. Meghali Goswami, Assistant Professor, Department of Visual Arts, Assam University, Silchar, for her guidance, thematic and scholastic suggestions to carry out the study. I am very much grateful to her as she has endlessly provided her support to finish the study within two and half years, and without her co-operation, this study would not have been possible in its present form.

I am also grateful to Mr. Nirmal Kanti Roy, Reader and Head, Department of Visual Arts, Assam University, Silchar, for his suggestions and whose friendly support encouraged me and gave me enthusiasm to complete my work. I cannot deny the contribution of Mr. Sivan G, Reader, Department of Visual Arts. He is the first person who encourages me to doing the research. I am grateful to him.

I was fortunate to get an opportunity to listen to the speech of the renowned sculptor Dinkar Kowshik on Ramkinkar’s sculpture, in 2007 on the occasion of Inter Disciplinary National Workshop held in Santiniketan. During that period I visited Santiniketan as a participant from Assam University. At Santiniketan, I came across art critic like Ansuman Das Gupta, artist and teachers of Kala Bhavan like Pankaj Panwar, Nirmal Das, Pinaki Barua, Sitangshu Mukharjee, Kamal Dhar and Nandadulal Mukharjee, Principal, Kala Bhavan. They provided me resourceful information regarding Ramkinkar and his works. I heartily acknowledge their contribution. The meetings with Sushen Ghosh, who was once a direct student of Ramkinkar
Baij and later retired as a Professor in sculpture from Kala Bhavan, first time in Santiniketan and second time his visit at Assam University in 2010 was a boon for me. A discussion with Professor Somendranath Bandopadhyay, during his visit at Assam University in 2010, who was a Professor of Viswabharti University and also close attached Ramkinkar provided me a way to go ahead with my studies. Each of them enlightened me with their own time-travels down the memory lane to the period through which Ramkinkar lived. I am grateful to all of them. I was very much fortunate to get more information about Ramkinkar Baij from renowned artist and art critic K. G. Subramanyan during his visit of Assam University in 2010, where the University offered him with a degree D. L.t.

I must also acknowledge my debt to Sanjay Sengupta, who was a student of Kala Bhavan and at present he is working in contemporary art field. I find no word to mention the help I received from Amitabha Deb Choudhury, one of the major poets and writers of the North-East. I want to offer special gratitude to my friend Baharul Islam Laskar, Sumita Dey, Ph.D. Scholar of Visual Arts and my colleagues Somaditya Datta and Rajen Vaidya, Assistant Professor of Visual Arts Department, Assam University. They helped me in various ways to complete my research. Moreover, unsought help and suggestion poured in from all the faculty members of Visual Arts Department. I would like to thank the entire staff of Visual Arts Department and Central Library, from where I was able to collect study material for my work and got so many help from them. In addition, I am thankful to UGC for providing me financial assistance during the first phase of my research. Mention should be been made to others who have contributed a lot to this modest eulogy of mine. I am grateful to all.
