ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

It is great pleasure that I acknowledge my indebtedness to many persons who contributed, in their own way, to the success of the present research effort.

I express my deep sense of gratitude to my beloved teacher and scholarly supervisor, Dr. P. S. Halyal, Reader in Psychology, Karnataka University, Dharwad, for his affectionate guidance and constant encouragement in planning and execution of the present study. I am indebted to him for having been a source of inspiration to me during all the years of my research work.

I am indebted to Karnataka University authorities for granting me the permission to carry out the research work.

I am thankful to Dr. A. S. Dharanendraiah, Chairman, Department of Psychology, Karnataka University, for having extended all the facilities and encouragement to pursue this research.

I owe my special thanks to Dr. M. V. Muddapur, Reader in Statistics, Karnataka University, who readily helped me with the analysis of my data through computerization.
I am immensely thankful to Dr. Hossein Malekafzalt, Reader in Statistics, Tehran University, Tehran, who willingly helped me with the analysis of my data through computerization.

My thanks are due to the authorities of Rosbehe and Noorafshar, Institute of Mental Health, Tehran, for permitting me to interview the patients and to utilize the clinical material for the study.

My special thanks are due to Dr. S.T. Kallapur, for his valuable suggestions in improving the content of my work.

I thank Mr. K.S. Sudarshan for his generous co-operation in correcting the typescript.

I acknowledge with a deep sense of gratitude for the constant assistance and moral support rendered by Mr. A.N. Hampiholi, who was a source of inspiration at all stages in completing this research work.

There are no words to thank Dr. Kuldeep Suraj and Ms. Jayashree Budihalmath, who extended their helping hand right from the beginning.
Lastly, I am very much thankful to my parents for their continued moral support for my research activity. I am also thankful to those who directly or indirectly helped me throughout the research work.
