ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Research in social sciences can seldom be undertaken in isolation. There are a number of people behind every researcher, whose co-operation, support and encouragement are essential in helping the researcher in various ways. It is therefore a pleasure to acknowledge their help and support to which the researcher owes a great deal.

I owe my personal debt to my research guide Dr. A.E. Punit, professor of sociology, for his erudite guidance and valuable suggestions at all stages of this research. But for his incessant encouragement throughout, this study would not have been possible.

I deem it a privilege to express my heartfelt gratitude to my senior colleagues and well-wishers, Dr. U.A. Attar, Dr. B.V. Badami, Smt. R.S. Bhaktal, Dr. S.J. Pujar, Prof. H.V. Nagesh, Prof. K.S. Deshpande, Dr. S.C. Sidramshettar, Dr. G.D. Patil, Dr. V.N. Deshpande, Sri. C.G. Chenni and many others for their being a constant source of inspiration in prompting me to complete this project.

I am deeply indebted to Sri. R.L. Patil who helped me with the computation and analysis of the relevant data collected from the respondents during the field work; to my colleagues in the department of statistics, Karnatak University, Dharwad, and Dr. A.R. Wadakannavar for kindly extending their expertise in statistics whenever sought; to Dr. K.S. Hoskot, and Dr. C.V. Venugopal for their untiring and unfailing patience, interest and enthusiasm in correcting the manuscript, commenting on the subject and language, and carefully proof reading the drafts, etc.
Government employees in the pension cell of the Dharwad District Treasury Office, other district offices of the government departments, employees of the branches of all nationalised banks in Dharwad, and the members of the executive body of the Dharwad District Pensioners' Association, spared no efforts in assisting me in locating addresses of female retirees residing in Dharwad city. I humbly record my sincere thanks to all of them.

I shall be failing in my duty if I do not acknowledge the help extended to me by the staff members of various libraries, particularly those of Karnataka University, Dharwad; Osmania University, Hyderabad; S.V. University, Tirupati; Tata Institute of social sciences, Mumbai; SNDT Women's University, Mumbai; and many other organizations all over India, in locating relevant reading material in support of this research.

My special thanks are due to Sri. R.K. Hegde and Sri. Anand Huddar for their meticulous typing and printing, and to Mr. Kumbar for neatly binding the thesis. I take this opportunity to express my profound sense of gratitude to all of them.

I am grateful to the chairman, Department of Post-Graduate Studies and Research in Sociology, Karnataka University, Dharwad and his colleagues for kindly enabling me to pursue my doctoral degree in sociology, a cognate subject of social work.

It is almost impossible to list all those who have supported my endeavour with their valuable suggestions, constructive comments, direct and indirect encouragement which strengthened my resolve to pursue my work. I take this opportunity to express my sincere thanks to all of them.
I am deeply indebted to my loving and considerate husband Sri. Vijaykumar, baby daughter Chi. Aditi, parents Smt. Sarojini and Sri. Bhageerath Pai, parents-in-law Smt. Sudha and Sri. Bhikku Prabhu, siblings and all the near and dear relatives, without whose understanding co-operation, constant encouragement and ungrudging moral support this piece of research would not have been completed.

Above all, I am most grateful to all my respondents for their unstinted co-operation by furnishing required information freely and frankly. Their patience, interest and responsiveness were indeed admirable and beyond all praise.
