References

771

HEGDE, G. R. 1982. Limnology and Taxonomical Studies in some algae. Thesis submitted to Karnatak University, Dharwad for degree of Ph.D.

Lake Kinneret Phytoplankton: Response to N and P En-

(T- 5 Canal)with Reference to Physico-chemical charac-

PRASAD. B. N. and M. SAXENA, 1980. Ecological study of Blue green algae in River Gomati. Indian J. Environ. Hlth, 22: 151 - 168.

PRASAD, B. M. and Y. P. SINGH, 1980 a. Algal Hydrobiology in India. Nat. Acad. Sc. India: Golden Jubilee Commemoration Vol: 271 - 300.

PRASAD, B. M. and Y. P. SINGH, 1980 B. Biological (algal) Makers of water pollution. Current Trends in Life sciences, 9:

PRASHAD, B. 1916. The Seasonal conditions governing the pond life

PRUTHI HEM SINGH, 1933. studies on the bionomics of fresh waters in India. I. Seasonal changes in the physical and chemical conditions of the water of the tank in the U. Hydrography, 28: 46 - 47.

RAI, H. 1978. Chlorophyll pigments in the Central Amazon lakes ecosystem. J. verb. internat. Verein. Limnol. 20: 1192 - 1197.

RAI, H. 1979. Glucose in Freshwater of Central Amazon lakes:
Natural substrate concentrations. Determined by Dilu-141 - 146.

Bacteria In the Varzea lake Ecosystem, Central 833 - 834.

RAI, H. and G. HILL, 1978. Bacteriological studies on Amazenas, 445 - 461.

in Lago Jananari: a Ria/Verza lakes of Central

THRESH, J. C., E. V. SUCKLING, and J. F. BEALE., 1944. The Examinations of water supplies, E.W. Taylor (ed.).

* Original not seen.