ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

It is a pleasant task for the investigator to express heart-felt thanks for his respected Guide Dr. N. S. Hiremath, Esq., for his effective guidance and kind and constant encouragement but for which he could not have completed this task.

The investigator wishes to record his deep sense of gratitude to Dr. Kodli, Esq., Head of the Department of Studies in Economics for his kind encouragement.

It is his happiest task to record his very immense gratefulness to Thiru. J. K. K. Angappan Correspondent, Salem Sowdeswari College, Salem, for the kind permission to undertake the investigation.

It is a rather happy task for him to express his deep sense of gratitude to the Director of Handlooms And Textiles, Government of Tamil Nadu for his support in permitting him to conduct the research work and also to the officers of the Directorate, Cooperative Spinning Mills, Aifcospin, SITRA and SIMA for their kind Cooperation and help in providing him the required data and suggestions.
The investigator records with reverence, his thankfulness to all his teachers especially to Dr. A. Besant C. Raj (Harvard) for their kind blessings and encouragement without which this work could not have flowered.

The investigator is indebted to all those who rendered the great service of typing the manuscript and bring it to the present form.

Help has also been received from so many individuals at such diverse times that it would be impossible to name them all, but this does not mean that he has failed to appreciate the value of such help and to be grateful to it.
