ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I am deeply indebted to my guide Dr. K. M. Prabhu, who readily accepted the proposal to supervise my project and was always supportive of my work. I thank him for his patience with me and his insightful guidance.

I am thankful to Dr. K. Panchapagesan, retired Professor in English, RKM Vivekananda College who initiated me into this research project. Himself an authority on Swami Vivekananda, he made me see Vivekananda the poet. He brought to function a latent interest in me in ‘religion’ and ‘Religion’ and made me realise the scope of a comparative study of the religious verse of the saint-poet Vivekananda and the priest-poet Hopkins. But for his commitments outside Chennai and India after his retirement, he would have seen to my completing the research. He will be happy that this Thesis has taken shape.

Dr. R. Ananthan, retired Head of the Department of English in my College is presently Principal, Sree Muthukumaraswami College, Chennai. His loving and caring concern for his junior colleagues will always remain difficult to match. His scholarly discourses and discussions in the college, department and several forums on religion and mysticism and matters transcendental, during my research and long before I plunged into it had inevitable bearings on my thought-process and the output of this project. Words cannot express in full the deep gratitude I owe him.
I am thankful to the Secretary and the Principal of RKM Vivekananda College, Chennai - 600 004 as also to the Principal and the Faculty of English of Government Arts College, Nandanam, Chennai - 600 035, without whose encouragement this project could not have been accomplished.

The kind advice and encouragement from several colleagues of mine in my own and various other departments of my College helped me whenever I happened to ‘hit a low’ in the work. Here I must mention the names of Dr. Indira of the University of Madras, Dr.K. Srinivasan, Dr.K. Muralidharan, Dr.Unnikrishna Pillai, Dr. R. Ramachandran and Prof. R. Balakrishnan. Several friends in and outside the academic circle too have taken a keen interest in my progress with this research, and I am grateful to them. My thanks are due to every one of them.

RKM Vivekananda College where I work and the Department of English there particularly, reverberate with serious discussions on matters religious and spiritual, and my being amidst this for thirty long years has gone a long way in pruning my understanding of the sublime which is bound to be reflected in this Thesis.

Last but not least, I am indebted to my wife Radha who stood through all thick and thin encouraging me. She volunteered to type out all that I put down on paper and helped me store, retrieve when needed, prune and re-shape the chapters of this Thesis in spite of her tight schedules at work and on the home front. Her friendship and her love have got this research through.

P.V. RAMANATHAN
