ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Research is an interesting and many times a challenging job, but sometimes it is also frustrating. I would not have overcome the frustrations effectively without the timely help received from several people and sources. I earnestly pay tribute to all of them.

My deepest feelings of gratitude are for my research guide, Dr. G.R. Patil, Professor, Department of Post-Graduate Studies and Research in Economics, Karnataka University, Dharwad, whose inspiration and valuable guidance have done so much to make this study a success. Inspite of his heavy schedule of work, he was very kind enough to go through the chapters of the thesis and has made corrections and suggestions for improvement. I owe him a lot for his intellectual inputs in shaping the present work. Without his analytical clarity, sober checks and invaluable comments the work would not have been accomplished.

My sincere thanks are due to Dr. R.V. Dadibhavi, Professor and Chairman and all the faculty members of the Department of Post-Graduate Studies and Research in Economics, Karnataka University, Dharwad.
