ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I can hardly find adequate words to express my sincere gratitude and appreciation to my supervisor Dr. Ashok Thorat for his valuable guidance, insightful comments, and his sympathetic assistance that steered me through these past four years to complete my work in time.

I am greatly indebted to Dr. Munira Lokhandwala, associate Prof. in the Department of English, Abeda, Inamdar College, Pune for her indispensable notes, comments, and suggestions that helped me to refine the work and put the final touch as well.

Special thanks are due to Mrs. Lamia Al-Ani, assist. Prof. in the Faculty of Education, University of Baghdad, Department of English for her help, fruitful discussion, and valuable advice.

Dr. Aqeed Al-Azawi, assist. Prof. in the Faculty of Education, University of Baghdad, Department of Glorious Qurān, deserves substantial thanks to help me gain fair knowledge on the sense of Rhetoric (‘ilm-balāgha) in Arabic and provides me with suitable recourses.

I would like to thank Dr. Usama Al-Safār, assist. Prof. in the Faculty of Education, University of Baghdad, Department of Arabic, for reading some preliminary versions of Arabic data analysis that helped me improve it by his useful feedback.

I owe a debt of gratitude to Dr. Sawsan S. Sirrya, assist. Prof. in the Faculty of Education for Women, Islamic University, for translating the Arabic articles into the English language.

Last but not least, I must thank my family to whom I owe everything.
