ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This piece of research work would not have been possible without the contribution of a number of people, who directly or indirectly have helped to complete this thesis.

I am grateful to my guide, Dr. Bikram Jit Singh Mann, Head of the Department, University Business School. He has been a constant guiding light throughout my work. I am grateful to him for his constructive and prompt feedback and advice, his directions, his encouragement, his support and his continuous emphasis on quality work at every stage of this research study. Every discussion with him has been inspiring and enriching.

I am thankful to the successive Heads of the Department of erstwhile, Department of Commerce and Business Management, Dr. Balwinder Singh and Dr. Lakhwinder Singh, for providing the necessary infrastructure and ensuring a conducive environment to carry out my research work.

I am immensely grateful to the staff and authorities at Bhai Gurdas Library, Guru Nanak Dev University, for providing the resources and ensuring an environment where one could sit, read and think. I am thankful to the Rattan Tata Library, Delhi School of Economics, for helping me collect the relevant literature, to the University Business School Library, Punjab University, Chandigarh for providing access to the Prowess software and thereby helping me gather data, to the Learning Center, Indian Institute of Management, Indore for allowing me access the Capitaline plus software, and various journals and books.

I am thankful to the administration staff at the University Business School and at the erstwhile Department of Commerce and Business Management. I would like to thank Mr. Harjinder Singh in particular, for taking care of all the required formalities and providing adequate and timely information.

I am thankful to the hostel authorities at Hostel No. 3, especially the mess staff, for their services. I am grateful to the staff of canteen of Hostel No. 2 and 3 for the endless number of cups of tea that they’ve served me and for all the food I’ve savored.

I am grateful to my friends and colleagues at the University Business School and at the erstwhile Department of Commerce and Business Management for their help and support. I am immensely grateful to my friends Abha Seth and Sidharath Seth who have been a constant help throughout this period of research. I am thankful to my friends at hostel, Pratibha, Jyoti and Isha for their help and support.

I am grateful to my friends, Monica, Preeti, Virpal and Meenu for being there to help me in every way and for providing me the much needed comic relief throughout the research process.

I am indebted to my parents, for their love, care and support. I am grateful to them, for the freedom they gave me, for the trust they have always bestowed on me, for their constant emphasis on the importance of education. Carrying out this research study has been possible because of their encouragement and blessings.

I am grateful to my grandmother for being my biggest inspiration. I am thankful to my Masi ji and Masar ji for their support and encouragement during the entire course of this study.

I am thankful to my brother and sister-in-law, and to my cousins for their constant encouragement and support and for their always looking out for me.

I am immensely thankful to my grandmother-in-law and father-in-law for their love, understanding and support during the course of this study.

I am grateful to my life-partner, Vivek, because, if he would not have come along, I certainly doubt completing this research work. I thank him for being my strength, for keeping me going, in his own amazing and strange ways, and for making me realize what it is all about.

And, to the ONE, thank you, for making it all fall into place.

Prabhjot Dutta