Acknowledgement

It was indeed a proud privilege to be a student of Dr. M. David, Department of Zoology, Karnataka University’s Karnataka Science College, Dharwad. It was a sheer pleasure and my good fortune to study under his guidance, who apart being a mentor was a source of constant encouragement throughout the study. His inexhaustible knowledge and unfailing support in his characteristic fashion have helped me in preparation of this thesis from its infancy to the final stage. His ever encouraging attitude and valuable suggestions throughout the study were source of inspiration and appreciation. My head bows in respect for his knowledge and kindness.

I extend my deep sense of gratitude to Dr. S. G. Mathad, Head of the Department of Zoology, Karnataka Science College, Dharwad for all the facilities provided during the research work. I take the opportunity to pay my respectful regards to him for his kindness, able guidance, constructive criticism and whole time co-operation.

I am indebted to my teachers Dr. V. K. Biradar, Dr. A. A. Hooli, Prof (Smt) K. B. Karale, Dr. (Smt) N. V. Biradar, Dr. (Smt) A. S. Bellad and Dr. (Smt) M. S. Nayak and Prof C. B. Ganesh, Department of Zoology, Karnataka Science College for their inspiration and encouragement. I profusely thank all the non-teaching staff for their help and co-operation during my research work.
