TABLE OF CONTENT

CERTIFICATE .............................................. I

DECLARATION BY CANDIDATE ..................... II

TABLE OF CONTENT .................................... III

INDEX OF TABLES ........................................ VI

INDEX OF FIGURES ..................................... VIII

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT ........................................ I

CHAPTER 1: ABOUT FDI IN INDIA ................. 1

1. INTRODUCTION ........................................ 1

1.1. FDI Policy Before Liberalization ......................... 1
1.2. FDI Policy Under Liberalization ......................... 4
1.2.2. Liberalization Era Part II: 2001 to 2012 ............... 15
1.2.3. FDI Linked Institutions in India ...................... 18
1.3. Recent FDI Trends ...................................... 19
1.4. Localization of FDI in India .............................. 25
1.5. Indian Automobile Sector and Its Growth Potential ........ 31
1.6. Auto Policy 2002 ........................................ 35
1.7. FDI in Indian Automobile Sector ....................... 40
1.7.1. Formation of Automobile Clusters in India ............ 42
1.7.2. Future of Indian Automobile Sector .................... 46

CHAPTER 2: REVIEW OF LITERATURE ............... 47

2. FDI in General ......................................... 47

2.1. Review of Literature on Localization ................... 51
2.2. Theory of Relative Advantage ......................... 56
2.3. Institutions-Based Approach ......................... 57
2.4. Information Cost Advantage ......................... 59
2.5. Need for the Present Study and Its Objectives .......... 62
2.6. Hypotheses of the Study ............................. 69
CHAPTER 3: CONCEPT AND METHODOLOGY

3. CONCEPT OF FDI

3.1 RBI Definition of FDI ................................................................. 74
3.2 Sources of Data ........................................................................... 75
3.3 Secondary Data: Its Assumptions and Limitation .......................... 77
3.4 Methodology for analyzing Secondary Data ............................... 81
3.5 Primary Data Collection .............................................................. 86
3.6 Methodology for Primary Data Analysis ..................................... 88
3.7 Limitations of Primary Data Analysis ......................................... 91

CHAPTER 4: RESULTS PART I - ANALYSIS OF SECONDARY DATA

4. THE RESULTS

4.1. DLPR Results of Dependent Variable $Y_1$, i.e. Log of Number of Newly Created Foreign Auto and Auto-Ancillary “First Plants” by State between Years 2002 to 2012 ($Y_1$), for Hypothesis: 1 ................... 94
4.2. DLPR Results of Dependent Variable $Y_1$, i.e. Log of Number of Newly Created Foreign Auto and Auto-Ancillary “First Plants” by State between Years 2002 to 2012, for Hypothesis 2 ................. 103
4.3. DLPR Results of Dependent Variable $Y_2$, i.e. Log of Amount of FDI in Millions in Auto and Auto-Ancillary Plants by State between Years 2002 to 2012, for Hypothesis: 1 ............................ 112
4.4. DLPR Results of Dependent Variable $Y_2$, i.e. Log of Amount of FDI in Millions in Auto and Auto-Ancillary Plants by State between Years 2002 to 2012, for Hypothesis 2 ......................... 120

CHAPTER 5: RESULTS PART II – ANALYSIS OF PRIMARY DATA

5. ANALYSIS OF AGGLOMERATION ECONOMIES AND LOCATION CHOICES: THE RESULTS

5.1. Introduction ................................................................................. 128
5.2. Analysis of Factors Impacting Plant Location ............................ 133
5.2.1. Factor Endowments .............................................................. 133
5.2.2. Information Cost ................................................................. 139
5.2.3. Agglomeration Externalities .................................................. 142
5.2.4. Infrastructure Related Endowments ..................................... 146
5.2.5. Institutional Practices .......................................................... 147
5.2.6. Export Potential of the Region ............................................. 149
5.3. Land Acquisition Issues ............................................................ 150
5.4. Satisfaction with the Current Plant Location ............................. 154
5.4.1. Effectiveness and Lucidity of Central & State Government Departments at the Time of Entry ................................. 154
5.4.2. Effectiveness and Worth of Regional Infrastructure and Endowments

5.4.3. Regional Progress of Foreign Auto and Auto Ancillary Firms: Post Entry

5.4.4. Doing Business Environment at Regional Level: Post Entry

5.4.5. Coordination between Center and State Government: At Present

5.4.6. Current Attitude of Regional Authorities towards FDI

5.4.7. Overall Satisfaction with Current Location

CONCLUSIONS & SUGGESTIONS

LIMITATIONS OF THE STUDY AND FURTHER RESEARCH

REFERENCES

ANNEXURE 1: QUESTIONNAIRE SURVEY

ANNEXURE 2: LIST OF COMPANIES SURVEYED