Acknowledgement

As said by someone “Guru is greater than God”. I would like to thank my mentor and research guide Dr. R.K.Balyan for his able and patient supervision throughout my Ph.D. candidature. I am especially indebted to him for his constant and able guidance, limitless support and patience throughout the period of my study. There is no way that I would be able to repay the kindness, support and guidance that he has imparted to me without which the work would not have been possible. I thank him sincerely for giving me timely and constructive feedback and for generous efforts without which this thesis work would not have been possible.

I thank Prof. Dr. Arti Trivedi for her cooperation and facilitation to enable my dissertation work. I am also thankful to Prof. Dr. Jayesh Aagja for his selfless guidance. I sincerely thank the management and staff of Kadi Sarva Vishvavidhalaya who acted as support for my thesis work. I thank all the authors whose publications were read for getting the conceptual clarity. In my thesis though only a fraction of it is used in literature but insights received are great. I also heartily thank respondents for their willingness to share some of their thoughts and experiences, which enabled my data collection. A special thanks to my colleague and friend Ms. Anu Gupta for showing the right path always.

I am very grateful to my parents and parents in law, for always inspiring and believing in me. They have shown their unconditional love towards me. A special thanks to my husband Mr. Ritesh Agarwal who stood by me throughout the tenure of research work and supported me in every way possible.

Lastly and above all I would like to thank almighty without the blessings of whom the work would not have furnished.
