Introduction

Figure 1.1: Distribution of atmosphere regions along with distance and temperature pattern
Figure 1.2a: Expected population growth of different countries
Figure 1.2b: Population growth in various countries along with India from 1950 onwards
Figure 1.3: Atmospheric particles cycling
Figure 1.4: Classification and properties of atmospheric particulates in terms of composition, dimension, optical properties and electromagnetic radiation
Figure 1.5: Schematic diagram of terminology, including area and volume distributions of PM
Figure 1.6: Schematic representation of the chemical reactions and processes associated with PM
Figure 1.7: Formation of secondary aerosol components due to chemical reaction and gas-to-particle conversion of VOCs in the atmosphere
Figure 1.8a: SEM images of PM particles reported by various researchers
Figure 1.8b: SEM images of PM particles reported by various researchers
Figure 1.8c: SEM images of PM particles reported by various researchers
Figure 1.9: Sources of particulate pollution from anthropogenic activities in Pune city
Figure 1.10: Hypothetical mixed particle size distribution based on the mass and number concentration
Figure 1.11a: Radiative forcing by tropospheric chemical components of aerosol particles
Figure 1.11b: Direct and indirect effects of atmospheric aerosol particles on climate
Figure 1.12: Global premature deaths due to PM
Figure 1.13: Deaths due to ambient pollution in India and China along with OECD countries
Figure 1.14a: Average annual exposure level (μg m⁻³) of PM between developed countries
Figure 1.14b: Average annual exposure level (μg m⁻³) of PM in between developing countries
Figure 1.14c: Map of world showing Asian countries which are polluted by PM
Figure 1.14: Trend of capital cities and their countries polluted by particulate matter in Asia

Literature Review

Figure 2.1: Various kinds of morphology of PM in Indian cities

Materials and Methods

Figure 3.1: Background of aerosol optical depth (MODIS AOD) showing a measurement site
Figure 3.2: Different activities carried out around the sampling site
Figure 3.3: Aerosol particles (PM$_{2.5}$ and PM$_{10}$) sampler
Figure 3.4a: Glass fiber filter papers before (a) and after (b) sampling
Results and Discussion

Figure 4.1: Month wise description of meteorological parameters and its variations
Figure 4.2: Day to day variability of meteorological parameters over Pune
Figure 4.3: Wind rose indicating the direction of winds with relative speed (ms⁻¹)
Figure 4.4a: Monthly variation in mass concentration of PM₂.₅ and PM₁₀ during study period
Figure 4.4b: The boundaries of the box indicate the 25th and 75th percentiles: a line within the box marks the median; whiskers indicate the 5th and 95th percentiles of mass PM₂.₅ and PM₁₀
Figure 4.5: Seasonal trend of PM mass concentration during study period
Figure 4.6: PM₂.₅/PM₁₀ during the study period
Figure 4.7: Monthly variation in sum of cations and anions in PM
Figure 4.8a: Monthly variability of cations in PM₂.₅ during the study period
Figure 4.8b: Monthly variability of cations in PM₁₀ during the study period
Figure 4.8c: Monthly variability of anions in PM₂.₅ during the study period
Figure 4.8d: Monthly variability of anions in PM₁₀ during the study period
Figure 4.9a: Percentile distribution of cations in PM₂.₅ and PM₁₀ at different interval levels
Figure 4.9b: Percentile distribution of anions in PM₂.₅ and PM₁₀ at different interval levels
Figure 4.10: Percent wise contribution of ionic component in particulate matter
Figure 4.11: Ratios between ionic species during the study period
Figure 4.12: Ratios between sum of anions and sum of cations in PM₂.₅ and PM₁₀
Figure 4.13: Correlation coefficients between sum of cations and anions in PM₂.₅ and PM₁₀
Figure 4.14: SEM images of PM₂.₅ along with their elemental composition during summer and monsoon
Figure 4.15: SEM images of PM₁₀ along with their elemental composition during summer and monsoon
Figure 4.16: SEM images and its elemental spectrum of PM$_{2.5}$ during post-monsoon and
winter period
Figure 4.17: SEM images and its elemental spectrum of PM$_{10}$ during post-monsoon and
winter period
Figure 4.18a: Al-silicates particles on the basis of SEM micrographs and EDS (Al, Si, O, Na, and Fe)
Figure 4.18b: Soot particles on the basis of SEM micrographs and EDS (C, O, Na, S and Ca)
Figure 4.18c: Tar balls particles on the basis of SEM micrographs and EDS (S, C, Cu, K, and Fe)
Figure 4.18d: P and S rich particles on the basis of SEM micrographs and EDS (P, S and Cl)
Figure 4.19: Monthly trend of organic and elemental carbon during study period
Figure 4.20: Season wise trend of OC and EC in PM$_{2.5}$ and PM$_{10}$ during study period
Figure 4.21: Month wise concentration of OC/EC ratio during study period
Figure 4.22: Monthly variations in OM and TCA in PM$_{2.5}$ and PM$_{10}$ during study period
Figure 4.23a: Monthly variations in SOC, POC and SOA in PM$_{2.5}$ during study period
Figure 4.23b: Monthly trend of SOC, POC and SOA in PM$_{10}$ during study period
Figure 4.24a: Values of effective carbon ratios (ECR) during study period
Figure 4.24b: Season wise values of effective carbon ratios
Figure 4.25: Variations in light extinction coefficient of different chemical species in Pune
Figure 4.26: Individual contribution of chemical species into light extinction coefficient
Figure 4.27: Monthly trends of aerosol optical depth (AOD) at Pune during study period
Figure 4.28: Season wise seven day air mass backward trajectory clusters analysis at Pune