ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

This course of research work has made me indebted to many individuals who had expanded their helping hands in leading the work to the endline. Without their cooperation in various ways, this work wouldn’t have been in the present form. Among those, I have to admit first my guide, Prof. Sunil Kumar Dutta, Head, Dept of Cultural Studies, who from the very outset had been encouraging me to perform this noble task in a systematic way. His meticulous supervision was said to be the elan vital of this work.

Next, I am grateful to Prof. Soumen Sen and Prof Nabin Chandra Sarma, two eminent folklorists on N.E. India, whose valuable suggestions on chronological ordering of the chapters and on the influence of English language in the dissemination of Nationalism respectively, gave a new dimension to my work.

Dr. Chandan Kumar Sharma, Head, Dept of Sociology, looked into conceptual ramification and enlightened me with his multidimensional approach. I am grateful to his generosity.

My sincere thanks go to Prof Madan Mohan Sharma, Head, Dept of English and Foreign Languages (EFL), who referred relevant materials and advised on the skills of fieldwork related to my topic.

I could not help offering my gratitude to Sri Gautam Kumar Bora, Lecturer, EFL dept. who sent the most deserved book “Folklore and Nationalism in Modern Finland” from Norway, absence of which would have led me to conceptual deficiency.

I must be thankful to Parashmoni Dutta, Manashi Bora, Juri Gogoi Konwar, Mandakini, Madam Madhurima Goswami and Sir Paramesh Dutta for their elevating effort to keep me in the right track and to accomplish the work in the right time.

I must acknowledge the contribution of the informants in the field work whose simplicity and quest for authenticity impraced me heavily.

At last, but not least, I thank my family members and kinsmen whose unconditional encouragement and sacrifices are beyond measurable.

With gratitude and wishes to all well wishers.
