References:

[7]. Biswas S.: Applied Stochastic Processes

[16]. David Werner: "Where there is no doctor", Chapter 20: Family planning-Having the number of children you want. 283-295.

[26]. Hamdan M. A. (1975): "Correlation between the numbers of two types of children when the family size distribution is zero-truncated negative binomial", Biometrics 31, 765-766.

[49]. Rajamanickam M. (1998): Hand Book of Family planning and Birth Control Attitude Scale, Published by Institute of Community Guidance and Research, Chennai, TN.

[69]. Wasao S. W. (2002): “Comparative analysis of the Socio-Economic correlates of fertility in Cameroon and the CAR (Central African Republic) population bulletin of the United Nations”.

distribution applied to comparative fecundability studies”,
Biometrics 42, 547-560.

selection in the United States: some implications”, Science, 184:
633-636.

“Regression analysis of count data”, *Journal of the Indian Stopping Rules of Childbearing Sex Differences in Birth Order”, Poisson regression model and its score tests”, *Journal of East 