Acknowledgements

At the outset I would like to express my gratitude to Dr. T. V. Pathy, my research supervisor and Professor and Head of the Department of History and Ancient Indian Culture, Marathwada University, Aurangabad, who encouraged me to take up this work. It is due to his encouragement that this work was taken up. He engaged me in stimulating discussions and encouraged me to express my point of view. But for his generous help and careful supervision at every stage of my work the dissertation could not have been completed. Indeed words are inadequate to express my deep sense of gratitude and indebtedness to him. In fact he has been a source of encouragement to me in my academic pursuits.

The library staff and the officials of the State Archives, Government of Andhra Pradesh, Hyderabad, have been extremely helpful to me in providing the research material including unpublished papers for which I am beholden to them. My thanks are due to Dr. Inamdar, Librarian of the Osmania University and Professor Radha Krishna Sarma of the Department of Ancient Indian History Culture and Archaeology of Osmania University who facilitated my stay and research work at Hyderabad.
The officers of the National Archives, New Delhi, specially Dr. Kulkarni and Shri Sharma have been helpful in many respects and I thank all of them.

The Librarian and the staff of the Marathwada University Library have always been helpful in retrieving rare and displaced books for me. I am specially beholden to Sarvashri Surnar, Dhepe, Deshpande and Miss More of the Library who did not spare any pains in helping me in my research work.

I would also like to thank my friends colleagues such as Dr. S.R. Kulkarni, Dr. S.B. Deshmukh, Mrs. Dulari R. Qureshi, Shri Pimpale and Shri Dhumal who have lent their friendly help and encouragement throughout.

My family members, father, brothers, sisters-in-law and sisters have always been sympathetic towards my higher education and more so during the course of my research work. In great earnest I express my deep sense of gratitude to Dr. Mrs. and Dr. S.A. Shah who gave me constant encouragement and who stood by me thick and thin at all critical stages. My heart goes all out in deep reverence to them. Mr. A.K. Pasha of the Aligarh University has been showing keen interest in the progress of my work for reasons better known to him. Words sound blase to express my thanks to him.
Thanks are also due to Shri P.L. Barwal for neatly typing out the thesis. I am also thankful to Shri B.H. Shinde for completing the photo printing work within a short period.

Date: (A. Rehana Shah)