ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

There is a popular saying in Sri Guru Granth Sahib which means that a good teacher is not only a source of inspiration but also a person who guides his students from darkness to light. So firstly I want to thank my teacher Dr. Narpinder Singh, for his contributions of time, ideas, and funding to make my Ph.D. experience productive and stimulating. He always encouraged me and expected me to think more independently, comprehensively and analytically about research. I considered myself honored to get the opportunity to work under his supervision.

I am thankful to Dr. N.S. Sodhi, Head of Department of Food Science and Technology, Guru Nanak Dev University, Amritsar for all types of help during my research.

My special thanks to Dr. Amritpal Kaur, Asstt. Prof., Deptt. Of Food Science and Technology for her encouragement throughout my research work.

I would like to thank Dr. Baljeet Singh, Prof., PAU, Ludhiana for assistance in extrusion experiments.

This thesis would not have been possible without the support of Dr. Seeratpreet Kaur who always encouraged me throughout my PhD and gave me her valuable tips from time to time.

Appreciative thanks are extended to Dr. Yoshiko Nakaura and Dr. Naoyoshi Inouchi at Department of Applied Biological Science, Fukuyama University, Fukuyama, Japan for the defractionation of starch.
I would also like to thank Dr. J.C. Rana, NBPGR, Shimla for providing me the research material for my PhD work.

Financial assistance as a project fellow under Ramanna fellowship grant is acknowledged.

I also acknowledged financial assistance by CSIR, New Delhi for awarding SRF.

I want to extend my special thanks to my labmates Dr. Sandeep Singh, Dr. Amardeep Singh, Mr. Khetan, Ms. Priyanka, Ms. Parmeet, Ms, Shagun for supporting me professionally and personally throughout my research work.

I would like to thank my friends Dr. Sarabjit Kaur, Arman, Mrs. Ranjit Kaur, Mr. Vikramjit Singh Aulakh, Ms. Sukhpreet, Ms. Rajwinder, Ms. Kamal, Ms Aman for helping me during thesis work.

I want to thank all the non-teaching staff of Deptt. of Food Science and Technology for providing me the instruments to carry out my research work.

I would like to thank my parents, sisters Jaspreet Kaur and Rajdeep Kaur and brother Pushpinder Singh, who have given me their support throughout, as always, for which my mere expression of thanks is not enough.

And finally I want to thank “Akalpurkh” for giving me the strength to carry out my research and survive through tough conditions throughout life, especially during PhD.

Shubhpreet Kaur