ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The author is indebted and grateful to Dr.K.V.KALIAPPAN, M.A., D.M. & S.P., Ph.D., Professor of Psychology and Director of Academic Staff College of University of Madras for having rendered inspiring guidance, invaluable suggestions and constant encouragement throughout the study for the successful completion of this research project.

The author wishes to acknowledge with due thanks to Dr.G.GOPAL, M.Sc., Ph.D., Senior Lecturer in Statistics, Department of Statistics, University of Madras for his critical review of the statistical analysis incorporated in this study.

Acknowledgements are due to Thiru. R. RAVANAN, Lecturer in Statistics, Government Arts College, Tiruthani for his voluntary assistance in computational exercises which were helpful in analysis of data. The author expresses her sincere thanks to the staff of USAB, for their whole-hearted co-operation in conducting this study. The authors conveys her thanks to Mr.TIRUVENKATAM for his excellent typing of the manuscript.

The labour spent on investigation and the energy expended in the course of research study might contribute to my intellectual property; but the comforts and love I owed to my children, husband and mother who piously allowed me to toil for my selfish ends cannot be compensated with mere expression of gratitude in words.
