ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

It is with deep sense of gratitude that I place on record the continuous and unstinted support given by my supervisor Dr. P.V. Raghavan, Professor and Head (Retired), Post-Graduate and Research Department of Economics, D.G. Vaishnav College, Chennai, throughout my research work. He has been a source of comfort and compassion. His acumen and vast scholarship has helped me in completing this work.

I also cherish and savour with pride and pety my association with Dr. S. Varadharajan, Professor (Retired), Department of Agricultural Economics, Tamil Nadu Agricultural University, Coimbatore, who has helped me in no small measure to steer clear of the ambiguities of research methodology and appreciate the significance of quantitative techniques employed. His has been a lamp unto my feet and a light unto my path. His devotion is total and his contribution is transparent.

I thank Dr. S.P. Rajagopalan, Principal, D.G. Vaishnav College, Chennai, for providing me the opportunity to pursue my research programme through the Post-Graduate and Research Department of Economics, of the College.

I sincerely thank Dr. S. Narasimhan, Head of the Post-Graduate and Research Department of Economics, D.G. Vaishnav College, Chennai, who has been encouraging me to complete the work through his timely and unconditional support. I also thank all the faculty members of the Department for their encouragement.

Dr. M. Naganathan, Professor and Head of the Department of Economics, University of Madras, has continued to remain a great source of inspiration right from the early 1980's when he guided me in the early phase of my research work.

I thank Dr. P. S. Jayaraman, Principal, A.M Jain College, for permitting me to continue my research work.

I also thank Sri. K. Sethuraman, Head of the Department of Economics, A.M Jain College and Dr. R. Vaidyanathan, my colleagues for encouraging me through material support from time to time.
It is the determination and astute stewardship of my friend and colleague, Dr. P. Ravilochanan, Department of Economics, A.M Jam College, who has stood by me through the thick and thin that has enabled me to complete this work. His affability has often coaxed and cajoled me throughout my academic pursuits. The presentation of this work is only due to his perseverance.

Dr. R. Balaji, Department of Economics, A.M Jam College, has been providing me able support through his perusal of manuscripts and valuable comments. His involvement in search of literature and his invaluable company lend a sense of comradeship in the preparation of this work.

I remain grateful to Prof. N. Venkataramanan and Mrs. Vidya Venkataramanan, who spared no effort in correcting the manuscripts and enabled me to present it within the shortest possible time.

Prof. G. Balasubramanian, Faculty Member, Institute for Financial Management and Research, Chennai, deserves all praise for his valued, timely and continued maternal support in shaping this work.

Dr. S. Elangovan, Assistant Professor, Department of Agricultural Economics, Tamil Nadu Agricultural University, Madurai through his easy and spontaneous approach helped me throughout my work. His contribution is gratefully acknowledged.

Thiru R. Venkatesan, Joint Secretary, Government of Tamil Nadu, has been encouraging me through everlasting cooperation. I remain grateful for all his efforts.

I place on record the moral support given to me by a host of friends like, Prof. N.S. Raghunathan and Prof. T.S. Devanarayanan, who through their humane approach have helped me to practice the righteous cause of the profession and to realise the need for continuous update to be more alive and sensitive.

I recall the good wishes of Late N.S. Vedantha Desikan, Librarian (Retired) of A.M Jam College, who was always egging me on to indulge in research.

Words are inadequate to thank the prompt and generous assistance provided by the Librarians and Staff of Madras Institute of Development Studies, Adyar, Chennai, USIS, Chennai, Connemara Library, Chennai, Department of Economics and Statistics, Government of Tamil Nadu, Chennai.
I recall the upbringing of my parents, who are no more, for imbuing in me the virtues of perseverance and sincerity. I deem it a privilege to dedicate this work to the memory of my grand uncle (late) Sri. A. Somasundara Reddiar, whose guidance I continue to treasure, but for whose prompting I would not have taken up teaching profession and to Padma Shri (late) Sri Mohanmulji Chordia, Founder President, A M Jain College, for all the good wishes he had blessed me with in all academic endeavours.

It is my good fortune that my wife Smt. S. Komala and my daughter Ms. S. Kasthuri, have always stood by me with love and understanding and whose encouragement enabled me to complete this work.
