ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Indian Writing in English has reached a crossroads which signals promises of potential productions from socially and spiritually conscious writers whose works display reformative principles which prove themselves to be effective implements to destroy the weeds of destructive forces for the fruitful cultivation of life affirming ideologies to foster a life of togetherness among the human race.

A study of the novels of Chaman Nahal in the above context is imperative since they offer positive directions towards a life of peaceful co-existence. But for his novels the present study would not have been feasible. I record my deep sense of gratitude to him for having provided me with this opportunity to work on his novels.

I wholeheartedly acknowledge my indebtedness to my guide and mentor Dr.A.Arunachalam who had been a source of inspiration and guidance without whose support and encouragement the present study would not have found completion within the stipulated time schedule.

I thank the Management of Sri Sarada College, Salem for granting me permission to undertake the present study.
I sincerely thank Dr. C. Cauvery, Principal, Sri Sarada College, Salem and Dr. U. K. Sudha Nayak, Former Principal, Sri Sarada College, Salem for the encouragement they gave me throughout my study.

I also thank the following agencies who have helped me to successfully complete my dissertation.

1. Sri Sarada College, Salem.
2. Erode Arts College, Erode.
3. Bharathiar University, Coimbatore.

I am also greatly obliged to the librarians of the following libraries for their willing co-operation.

1. Dhvanyalok, Mysore.
2. Sri Sarada College Library, Salem.
3. Departmental Library, Department of English, Sri Sarada College, Salem.
4. Central Library, Bharathidasan University, Tiruchy.
5. Central Library, Salem.
6. Departmental Library, Department of English, Government College of Arts and Science for men, Salem.
7. Departmental Library, Department of English, Government College of Arts and Science for women, Salem.

I thank my friends and well-wishers who have offered me valuable suggestions for the realisation of this dissertation.