ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Inexorably, writing this thesis has been a collective endeavour. It is really a heart warming experience to express the greatest gratitude for multi layered assistance and the advices received. Notwithstanding this, my acknowledgement must be brief otherwise would it become a thesis in itself.

First my deepest gratitude goes to Prof. Rattan Lal Hangloo, who has been my supervisor and a fatherly figure throughout my stay at HCU. My association with him and his family members has gone far beyond the stereotypical image of “scholar/supervisor” binary. He has been a catalyst and constant inspiration in all my academic endeavours. I thank him with deep love.

To the staff of the Indira Gandhi Memorial Library, HCU; JNU library; Delhi University Libraries; ICCR Library, New Delhi; Nehru Memorial Library, New Delhi; Sahitya Academy Library, New Delhi; Calicut University Library; Calicut, Regional Archives; Vaidhyamadom Hospital Library, Trithala; The American Library New Delhi, I owe deep and pleasant expression of utmost gratitude for helping me find books, journals, and during peak hours, chairs.

I am indeed indebted to the faculty members and the non-teaching staffs of the Department of History, HCU for their suggestion and help. Professor Rila Mukherjee for her insightful suggestions at the Pre-Submission, Prof. Rekha Pande for her care, Prof. K.P. Rao for his approachability and occasional confectioneries, Dr. Sanjay Subhod for his timely help and Dr. Swaroopa Rani for the push to ‘submit fast’ at occasional meetings. I also thank Prof. Sheela Prasad for being generous in suggestions and inspiration.

Thanking Dr. M. N. Rajesh!! All languages in the world would fail to give me an apt expression. I don’t attempt.

I thank my ever helpful colleagues, Thakran Sab, Jaffri Sab, Seema Alavi, Sunil Kumar, Farhad, Biswamoy Pati, Razi, Saif and all others in the department of History, Delhi University.

Excited Members of erstwhile ruling family of Kuttippuram for being written about have been very helping with regard to the photographs and extending access to their priceless medieval artefacts. They earned the researcher’s warm regard.

I owe deep and pleasant debt to Dr. Sukumar, Didi, Hany Babu, Jenny, Faizi and Navneet, who have been my extended family in Delhi.

My friends Tajuddhin and Suresh Jagannatham made it possible for me to sail through all odds over a decade. Sarvesh, Salil Kader and Senthil have been shouting at me all these years to submit it... finally it’s here. Thanks buddies.
I am really grateful to Harish, Avinash, Chitibabu, Taya, Sumita, Nidish, Zikrulla, Nishad Bhai, Shafi, Rakesh, Vinu, Praveen, Kabeer, Zwali, Divya, Rahil, Ramakrishna, Fanish, Amma.... and an endless list of many such people who have been close to me for years.

Words and gestures cannot express what I owe to my best friend, Kuttie for bearing with me all this while. Her rejuvenating and inspiring companionship has been the pillars of my strength. No formal Thanks.

Last, but not the least, Umma, Rahana, Khaleel, Souda, Rasiya and all other family members for sharing my good and bad days.
