Acknowledgements

I would like to begin my thanking first to almighty God, who is the source of all knowledge and wisdom, without whose blessings it would not have been possible to write this doctoral thesis. The research project was not achievable without the guidance and help of several people around me who, in one way or the other, contributed and extended their valuable assistance in the preparation and completion of this task.

It has been great honour and privilege to be a research scholar under the guidance of Prof. K. Ramakrishnaiah, Principal and Dean Faculty of Commerce, S.V.U. College of Commerce, Management & Computer Science, Sri Venkateswara University, Tirupati. I especially would like to express my gratitude to him as he was always helpful and offered his invaluable assistance, support and guidance during my research at the department of Commerce. His constant guidance and willingness to share his vast knowledge made me understand the project and its manifestations in great depths. I am also very much thankful to my guide for providing all facilities and support to meet my project requirements, which helped me to complete the assigned task.

I am extremely happy to thank Prof. M. Rajasekhar, Head, Department of Commerce and Prof. K. Jayachandra, Chairman, Board of Studies, in Commerce (PG) for extending their co-operation.
