Acknowledgement

Everybody has story to tell and I have mine too. Mine is the story about the Journey of dream and reality, uncertainty and certain, a challenge for a novice into an unknown. In course of time I met many people who Journeyed along or stopped by to help, to give direction, and comfort.

I give all glory and honor to the unseen but omnipresent person who was always with me. He said to me, “Fear thou not; for I am with thee: be not dismayed; for I am thy God: I will strengthen thee; yea, I will help thee; yea, I will uphold thee with the right hand of my righteousness” (KJV. Isaiah 40:10).

As I forayed into an unknown world of searching, I met an intellectual, a person of high caliber who led me through and that person is none other than Prof. J.J. Roy Burman. Had it not been for you, I would never have thought about this research topic. You made me to understand and look at the tradition, which has existed since time immemorial from the researcher’s lens. It was difficult to decipher and many a time, I was on a verge of giving up, but your endurance and encouragement helped me to bounce back to complete the incomplete. To me, you were not only a research guide but also a father figure who would discipline the rebellious, a friend who was ready to help.

From the beginning to the end of my research journey two supportive men never failed to help me. I immensely thank Prof. H. Beck and Dr. C.J. Sonowal, my DAC members for correcting and guiding me all throughout my research.

I also extend my heartfelt gratitude to Prof. Lakshmi Lingam (former Dean of R&D) for listening to my problems and encouragement. I thank Prof. Surinder Jaswal, the Deputy Director Research for telling me that, ‘Sometimes when you fall low, you rise up strong’. This particular sentence kept me going.

My gratitude and appreciation are for Prof. Anil Sutar, Prof. Saxena, Mr. Ravindran, Dr. Rajeshri Mahtani for teaching me all about research methodology.
I would like to thank Nirmala Mam and Rajesh Sir for always been kind to me. Hostel was not a hostel but a home to me. My gratitude to all the housekeeping staff, in charge of fourth floor during my stay, your painstaking service made me live in comfort.

What can I say when all of you have suffered and bear the brunt of my prolonged journey. Perhaps I should do another research on ‘Parents and Sibling as support system of a research scholar’. Words are not adequate to express how thankful I am to my parents, my younger sister, my three brothers, my sister In-law, my Nephew and Niece. I love you all and I just want to tell you that I am finally coming home!
I appreciate the love and support shown to me by my extended families from both paternal and maternal side- My uncles, Aunties, my cousins, my nieces and my nephews. This page does not allow me to write about each one of you but you have all been supportive and I am lucky to have such a nice big family.

I am one of those fortunate people to have found a place in people’s heart. Since the day I decided to pursue my higher education, a group of elderly people in New colony have been praying for me. I appreciate and extend my gratitude to my Ipuza Xunili Kiba, Ipuza Vizheli, Ipuza Ghutoli Kiba, Ipuza Ghozheli Yeputho, Ipuza Khetoli, Ipuza Ghozheli Swu and Late. Ani Toili.

I can never forget my M.Phil 2007 batch; it was awesome knowing all of you. Life in TISS would not have been cheerful and meaningful had it not been for a gang of mad scholars. We came from different parts of the country, family etc, but I often was in awe of how God chose the mad ones. I would like to thank Bhashu, Ujju, Amru, Sumu, Rashmi, Nandu for all your love, affection and all the fun. I miss you all.
Thank you Meghu and Kutty for your encouragements, you people are awesome. My appreciation and love to Sis. Teresa and Preety, I shared your room too. Thank you Latu for your spiritual and academic advice, we do not get those free of cost these days.
To Bidisha, Asha, Anjali, Rohini, Afsa, Shruti, Vijaya, Tara, Bhuvna, Vinita, Kirti you have all been wonderful and touched my life in one way or the other.
My heartfelt gratitude to all the fourth and fifth floor PhD hostel mates for making me feel at ease during the crucial moments of my research.

If there is one person who knows your ugly side but chose to ignore, it is Jenny. You did take the role of my mother and became my provider too. Thank you for being such a wonderful and loyal friend.

You are not forgotten Alili, thank you for being there for me. At times, it was difficult to handle you because of the struggle within myself, but I always knew that it was your way of showing your love and concern. You have been a great support all throughout my difficulties.

Thank you Sukhdev for introducing me to TISS and for your help. My appreciation and thanks to Rakesh, Pebem, Charan, Dhaneshwar and Late Kengu for helping me in one way or the other.

My love and gratitude to Noli, Genuine, Garima, Arya, Minal, Arpana, Fweshali, and my roommate Swati for being there for me.

Last but not the least, I am indebted to all my respondents in Ghuvishe village, Asukhomi village, New colony and Amiphot colony. Thank you all for sharing your wisdom and knowledge with me.
