METHODOLOGY

Research Methodology has broadly two dimension one is theoretical method, other one is analytical method (data based). There are two sources of research methodology one is primary source, other one is secondary sources, as I took the research field of ‘Strategic environment of South Asia’, in this regard, I adopted theoretical tools for my research project. It takes a holistic approach. It has analyses of the under issues involved with an integral approach instead of examining various issues piecemeal, my research work mainly depended upon secondary source of materials, books, magazines, periodicals, National and International Journals and Newspapers.
