ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Ph.D. is a degree in which exhaustive research work has to be carried out. For a part time Ph.D. scholar it would be so difficult to work for it without the help of other people. Quite obviously, I have received help from my family members, friends, colleagues, researchers, authors and my dear students. I sincerely wish to thank one and all for the help extended by them.

It would have been impossible to accomplish this work without the kind responses of the local (Vallabh Vidyanagar) residents. They cooperated with me by responding to my questionnaires and provided me the most useful data, which was the basic necessity of the present study. I appreciate their support and thank them.

I express my heartfelt gratitude towards my Guide Dr. Vinayak H. Patel for laying the foundation stone and helping me conceptualize the topic of this research work. He was a constant source of motivation and was always there to guide me. He was always there to give me valuable inputs and to motivate me on continuous basis. His in depth insight in the field of research greatly influenced me and during my several conversations I learnt the fundamentals of research and much more. He was never hesitant to welcome my queries and confusions at any point of time and was more than ready to guide me towards the path of research. Under his umbrella I found the shadow of serenity and have grown as a researcher.

I do not want to miss out on this opportunity to express my gratefulness towards Ms. Rekha Emanuel, Principal, S.M.Patel College of Home Science for being so kind and considerate to give me freedom to carry out my research. Her unconditional love and care made me so comfortable to perform the dual task of being an academician and a researcher. She was the one who was instrumental in making me realize my potential. I must admit that without her this work would not have been possible.
Many of my colleagues have helped me and have continuously inspired me to complete my work. I thank each one of them for the same. Very Special thanks to Ms. Shazia Sharma, Ms. Vijaya Agarwal, Ms. Minal Chauhan, Ms. Tanvi Makwana, Ms. Harjeet Kaur, Ms. Malvika Patel for their constant support and helping hand even at odd hours. Thanks to Dr. Devika Thakkar for her constant motivation. I thank all the staff members of my college including the office staff along with the supporting staff.

I would like to express my gratitude towards Dr. Rema Subhash (Didi), Dr. Viraj Roghelia of P.G. Department of Home Science for helping me to carry out the research work. My special thanks to Prof. Aakar Roghelia (BVM), Mr. Bhadresh Patel (BVM), Mr. Hiren Kakkad, Mr Venkatesh and Mr. Dharmesh Raikundalia for their inputs in data management and statistical analysis.

I cannot forget to mention a word of appreciation for Mr. Mahendrabhai Patel (Babakaka)(President), Mr. Bhairav Patel, Ms. Mruga Patel and Mr. Himanshu Patel, the counsellors of Municipal Burro, Vallabh Vidyanagar for providing ward wise data of the population.

I whole heartedly thank Dr. C. L. Patel (Chairman, Charutar Vidya Mandal) for permitting me to pursue my Ph.D. along with my job and for showering his blessings. I also thank Dr. J. D. Patel, Dr. S. G. Patel and all the Secretaries of CVM for continuously inspiring me to complete my work.

A teacher’s biggest asset is her students. A few of my past students have assisted me in my marathon work by getting a few questionnaires filled from the respondents and supporting me in whatever way they could. They are Shreya, Megha, Nehal, Hetal, Ankita, Vimal, Dimpy, Foram and Monarch. I thank them from the bottom of my heart. Special thanks to Disha and Aarti for their constant support in preliminary phase of my work.

I am also thankful to Hitenbhai (Santram Computer & Graphics) for his support in formatting and printing of my thesis with whole hearted cooperation.

I can never forget my family at this point of time and owe my gratitude towards my sisters and brother. I am indebted to my brother-in-law Bharatkumar and sister-in-law Alkuben as they have taken in depth care of my children in USA who reside with them. Due to this, I had complete peace of mind and was free of worries and could concentrate on my dream project.

My sincere thanks to Gunjan - my second son and my daughter Manasi’s second parents for their indirect support.

I cannot forget my silent supporters, Satish, Bhavanben and Leelaben as they are the ones who have taken care of my house when I was extremely busy.

Yogesh, my better half, is happier than me, when I am accomplishing my task of research. He is the biggest source of motivation and has sacrificed a lot while I was working for this. I am feeling short of words while expressing about his contribution and support in my research work especially in statistical analysis. He was the one who kept on giving me the strength and courage for my present work. Without his outstanding support my submission would have been impossible. I owe my thesis to him. Manasi and Abhishek my beloved children are the backbone and source of happiness and love. They kept on reminding me of the deadlines and gave me spark whenever I was feeling low and were constantly reminding me about my health. Though at a distance, they have even helped me in grammatical corrections.

In the end I would like to bow down to Lord Shree Swaminarayan for showering His blessings on me and to show me the right path to travel on.
