ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

It is my greatest pleasure to express my deep sense of gratitude to Dr. N.L. Srimathi, Professor, Department of Studies in Psychology, University of Mysore, for accepting to guide me for the Ph.D. Degree. Without her guidance it would not have been possible for me to bring out this research as a reality. I am indebted to her for what she has taught me and for her encouragement, keen interest as well as precious suggestions and guidance throughout the period, which prompted me to complete the thesis within stipulated period.

I am also grateful to the Chairman of the Department of Studies in Psychology, namely Professor G. Venkatesh Kumar, for providing me the necessary facilities to carry out my research work in the Department and for their valuable support throughout my study period.

I place on record my sincere thanks to Professor Mewa Singh, Dr. P. Prakash, Professor Sampath Kumar and Professor Jyothi for their kind cooperation and valuable suggestions during my work. Further, I thank all other members of the Faculty, Department of Studies in Psychology and staff for providing me all the support for the completion of his work.

I am grateful to Dr. Lancy D’Souza, Selection Grade Lecturer, Department of Studies in Psychology, Maharaja’s College, Mysuru, for his suggestions and help in the analysis of data.

I thank the concerned authorities of various Primary and Secondary Schools – Principals and Teachers for helping me in data collection.

It is my greatest pleasure to express my heartiest thanks to my brother Ali Salimirad, for his financial and moral support to do this work.

Last but not the least, I wish to profusely thank my family for their solid support and encouragement throughout my research.

(FATEMEH SALIMIRAD)