ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

In writing this thesis I have received help and encouragement from many to whom I owe deep and immense gratitude. I am highly indebted to my teacher and research guide Dr. Dhruba Pratim Sarmah for his kind supervision and guidance. I would especially like to acknowledge the encouragement offered by Dr. Dhruba Pratim Sarmah as this thesis would not have found its desired aim without his valuable guidance and incisive comments. My grateful acknowledgements are due to him for his patient and sensitive understanding of the entire process of writing as this thesis mostly emerged in the process of continuous, fruitful debates with him.

In retrospect, I am grateful to Prof. Manirul Hussain, Dr. Nani Gopal Mahanta, Dr. Alaka Sarmah, Prof. Sandhya Goswami, Dr. Subrajit Konwar, Dr. Bikash Tripathi, Prof. Niru Hazarika and all the members of the teaching staff of the Department of Political Science, Gauhati University for their valuable suggestions.

I am happy to acknowledge my gratitude to the staff of Women Research Centre, Gauhati University and K.K. Handiqui library for the kind help they rendered.

My greatest debt lies with my family especially my parents Madan Mohan Sarma and Gita Devi for their continuous motivation and my aunty Kalpana
Sarmah whose incisive comments and persistent motivation made me sail through rough times. I am also thankful to my uncle Rohit Roy and aunty Pranati Sarma for their help and advice.

In the end I express my sincere thanks to Kamal Krishna Sarmah and Nishanta Das for doing DTP & Print. I do acknowledge the support of all my friends and well wishers who made this work possible.
