ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I take this opportunity to thank my well-wishers without whom this dissertation would not have been completed. I am indebted to many individuals and institutions whose assistance was invaluable during my research work.

First and foremost, my sincere and heartfelt thanks to Dr. H. Rajashekar, Professor, Department of Studies in Commerce, University of Mysore, Manasagangotri for accepting me as a research scholar. This research work has been possible because of his patient and able guidance. I am deeply indebted to his continuous help, guidance and motivation throughout the course of my work. I express my profound gratitude and respect to him for his dedicated supervision and valuable expert advice at every stage of this thesis.

Second, my special thanks to Department of Commerce, University of Mysore for providing the opportunity to pursue my intellectual goals and dreams. I am thankful to Dr. Nagendra Babu K. Chairman and Associate Professor, DOS in Commerce, University of Mysore for his insights. I express my gratefulness to Prof. G. Kotreshwar, Prof. Suresh B H, Dr. B Nagaraju, Dr N. Nagaraja and Dr. M L Ashoka for their valuable suggestions and encouragement. My sincere thanks to all the teaching and non teaching staff of DOS in Commerce for extending their co-operation in many ways and making my journey joyful.

Third, I owe my debt to library resources at University of Mysore and Indian Institute of Management, Bangalore (IIMB) for their generous access to library resources. Discussions with faculty and scholars during workshops and meetings also enabled my sustained interest and curiosity in the subject.

Most important, my sincere thanks to all the respondents, employees working in various IT companies for spending their valuable time in sharing their stories and providing the required data. Their experiences and unbiased narration has immensely contributed to my own personal wisdom and knowledge which I cherish. Some of the respondents have become by best friends. I would take this opportunity to thank the executives and staff members of various organizations for their co-operation in the collection of data and also for their valuable suggestions. This journey would not have become possible without the support and enthusiasm of them.

Many thanks to Dr. Jayasimha K R, IIM, Indore, Dr. Shahida P, ASCI, Hyderabad, Dr. Ganesh Kumar, Shankar MM, CARES, Raghavendra HS, OPEL CONSULTING for several intellectual engagements and for the invaluable support they extended during my research study.

I would like to thank Mr. M. Naveen Kumar from MNK Solutions, Saraswathipuram, for giving the better outlook and perspective of the thesis.

My family has always backed me with their love. I owe my debt to my father Sri. B.C. Shanker for inspiring me and to my mother Smt. Shailaja for motivating me to achieve higher goals. My only niece Swara was the real joy of life during the difficult times.

Finally, my humble prayers to DEVI SARASWATHI, GODDESS of wisdom and knowledge for her blessings.

Place: Bangalore
Date: 09-02-2016

(Truptha S.)