ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

My guru and guide Dr RN Sreelatha sowed the seeds of my music journey and set me on this most incredible path. She has been the guiding force behind this research into the heart of Karnataka classical music tradition. To her I am deeply indebted. This research would not have been possible without the guidance of Dr. BM Sundaram, a musicologist who belongs to a family that have been traditional custodians of Karnataka classical music. He is the foremost authority on Nagaswaram music, its history, heritage and traditions. He spent many hours in discussion, enriching and forming the very basis of my research material. Needless to say, his word has added utmost value to my research. I am also deeply indebted to renowned vocalist Kalavathy Avadhoot who gave me a large number of soundtracks contain live-recordings of Nagaswaram concerts, without which I would not have found enough research material. This collection has been one of the most valuable and sizable study materials. I would like to thank Dr Mysore M Manjunath for putting me in touch with a lot of Nagaswaram artists. His engagement ensured that I raise the bar while the analysing of the content and practise of Karnataka classical music. I am obliged to many musicians who willingly granted me interviews and broadened the horizons of research : CA Sreedhara, Nagaswaram players SR Shankar, SR Sathnarayan, Raghavendra S, Semmponarkoil Rajanna, Vyasarpadi Kothandaraman and Meheboob Subhani-Khaleeshabi Subhani, RK Srikantan, PS Narayanaswamy, M Chandrasekaran, R Vedavalli, Jayanthi Kumaresh, Kumaresh Rajagopalan, Ritha Rajan, Bangalore HK Venkatram, Sanjay Subrahmanyan, Flautist Shashank Subramanyam, Tavildar Denkanikote Mani, Lalitha Nandini, R Sathyanarayana, Sumithra Vasudevan, Ashwin Anand, Suvarnalatha Rao and TN Padma. I am most grateful to Professor Maha Jabeen, the Principal of the University college of Fine Arts, Mysore.

I would like to give my special thanks to the National Centre for Performing Arts, Mumbai and the Indian Musicological Society for giving me an opportunity to present a paper on my research topic in front of many leading musicians at their prestigious annual seminar. I am also grateful to the Jignyasa Trust and Raga Sudha Hall for funding one of my most ambitious projects of a joint presentation with reknowned Nagaswaram artist Vyasarpadi G Kothandaraman on the Nagaswaram sampradaya. I would like to thank Ananya Kalasinchana for carrying articles authored by me. The librarians of Mythic Society, Bangalore were of the utmost help and procured many books specifically on my request.
I would like to thank the Music Academy, Madras for granting me access to their journals which are a wealth of knowledge and the Sruti Foundation, whose journal ‘Sruti’ has been a huge source of information on the Nagaswaram Bani and Nagaswaram players. The Archive of Indian Music set up by Vikram Sampath has been a great resource towards this research.

I would like to thank my mother Ambika Balakrishnan who helped me translate many Tamil documents and scripts into English and my father K Balakrishnan for his constant guidance and support during the course of my research. I would like to thank my husband PK Jayadevan for the many days he spent traveling with me (all over south India) covering interviews and for being my enthusiastic camera man.
