ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I take this opportunity to express my appreciation and cooperation of the persons who assisted me in this research.

I am most grateful to Professor T.K. Common under whose guidance and supervision this research was conducted. He patiently provided continuous support, thoughtful criticisms and comments. The intellectual stimulus he provided me only made it possible for me to complete this work. He has been my guide and mentor from my M.Phil studies and he remains my mentor still.

To Prof. T.K. Common I owe a special debt and I sincerely acknowledge it.

I am thankful to Dr. S. Anandalakshmy, Director, Lady Irwin College for the helpful advice, suggestions and a careful scrutiny of the draft.

I am thankful to my respondents and informants who responded patiently to my endless questioning about very personal aspects of their family life.

I am also grateful to Sh. M. Gupta for typing the final manuscript.

Finally, I thank my family - parents, husband and two sons for their silent support and patience. They made this study a family enterprise. My husband being a part of the Naval wing my growing sons also experienced problems associated with father absence. Perhaps this made the study more meaningful and subconsciously also influenced my focus on this theme.
