Acknowledgements

Several people are creditable for their valuable contribution to this study. Above all, I am very much indebted to my research guide Professor Ch Bapu Haranath for his immense kindness, unreserved advice and constructive comments that greatly enriched this research. I am also sincerely grateful to Professor G. Jai Kishan, Head of the Department of Anthropology. His contribution both as co-research guide and department head is invaluable. At the core of my acknowledgments are the people I studied. I am indebted to all my informants who participated in this research. Though difficult to list the names of all, I would like to express my special gratitude to Ato Samuel Kekebo, Ato Alemu Jerjersa, Ato Gemede Jigiso, Ato Samuel Mitiku, Ato Aklilu Tamiru, Ato Gemede Dube, Ato Boru Gelgelo, Ato Kebede Jilo, Ato Adula Hirbaye, and Ato Yohannes Erba who helped me in various ways apart from their valuable participation in the research as key informants. The fieldwork of this research could not have been undertaken without the help of my research assistants, Ato Ashebir Asfaw and Ato Tilahun Gashara. I am grateful for their genuine and unreserved help during my stay in the field.

My special thanks and appreciation goes to Dr. Tadesse Beriso (Associate Professor), President of Bule-Hora University, who critically supervised and commented on the proposal of the research and gave me direction. Besides, he provided me several books and articles pertinent to my research. His guidance and advice has really been manifold and it shaped the work. I am also indebted to Professor Barry Hewlett of anthropology department, Washington State University, USA, for critically reviewing and giving me valuable comments. My friend Shifa Soressa deserves so many thanks for spending his time to read, edit and critically comment on the thesis. My friend Dr. Mamo Hebo, Dr. Ayalew Gebre, my long time mentor at Addis Ababa University, and Ato Jemjem Udessa deserve thanks for providing me several books and articles related to my study.

My journey was made easier as a result of several works already done on Gedeo and Guji communities by other scholars, to whom I owe a great deal. Notable among these pioneer scholars are Charles McClellan, John Hinnant, Tadesse Berisso, Tadesse Kippie, Asebe Regassa, Jemjem Udessa, Dhadacha Gololcha, Girum KinfeMichael and Demissie Woressa. I am indebted to all of them. The FDRE Ministry of Education gave me full scholarship for my doctoral study. Hawassa University covered the expenses of my field research. Both institutions deserve thanks.

Acknowledgements are also due to my bosom friends who in one way or another contributed to the successful completion of my study. Though difficult to list all, Ketema Kifle, Tesfaye Mergia, Shemsu Shafi, Teshome Soressa, Nigussie Sulieman, Mekuria Mergia, Temam A/Kadir, Wondwessen Emiru, and Mesfin Gobena deserve many thanks for their friendly help in different ways.

Finally, my heartfelt appreciation and special gratitude goes to my beloved wife Serawit Alemu (Mimi) who always gives me courage and strength in my works. She covered all the challenges of leading family and caring for our kids in my absence. I owe endless thanks to her. I am indebted to my father Ato Shibru Abate and My Mother W/ro Dinknesh Sorre for their immeasurable support throughout my life. I am indebted to all my brothers and beloved sisters; particularly to Alemtsehay Shibru (Mintu) who was always with my wife and shared with her the burden and challenges of loneliness in my absence. I am gleeful for my aunt, W/ro Zelekash Abate, who took the first initiative to drag me off to school at my early childhood. I cannot but hope that her dream has come true.
