Contents

1. Introduction .................................................. 7

2. Chapter One: The IPTA (1943-55): The Problematic of Desire and Control In Cultural Action .................................................. 71

5. Chapter Four: Spectacles of Freedom and Misogyny: Representations of Women in Bengali Political Theatre Developing around the Emergency in India (1965-1978) .................................................. 180

7. Conclusion .................................................. 292

8. Epilogue: Abortive Possibilities .................................................. 308

9. Bibliography .................................................. 318