ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Words are insufficient to bear the gratitude that I owe to my supervisor Prof. Gulshan Dietl. Her humane approach coupled with her erudite guidance has immensely contributed towards the formulation of this thesis.

She has been greatly supporting me both morally and academically. I wish to express my deep sense of gratitude to her for providing encouragement and fruitful discussions, which enabled me to undertake the work and give shape to this thesis. Without her critical comments and guidance, this work would have never taken the right shape. In fact, she has been a constant source of strength and inspiration. I thank her for all the help that she has given me during the course of the work and for the insights. I am grateful to her beyond words, therefore it is better to thank in the language of silence.

I am also indebted to all my teachers and faculty members of the Centre for West Asian and African Studies (JNU), for providing me their active support. They gave me new insights and suggestions regarding my thesis.

The libraries and various research institutions in Iran and India have been very useful to me in gathering facts. My gratitude is due to all these institutions for the help rendered, particularly the staff of Jawaharlal Nehru University, Institute for Defense Studies and Analyses (IDSA), Teen Murti House and Sapru House.

Besides, I am indebted to the staff of the library of Tehran University, particularly library of the School of Law and Political Studies, library of Majlis and National library in Iran.
I extend my gratitude also to the staff of the Institute for International and Political Studies of Foreign Affairs Centre for Strategic Studies, Centre for West Asian Studies and Centre for Researches of Majlis in Tehran.

I can not forget my friends in JNU, Mr. Kannan, Mrs. Semeena and Mr. Shuja Asif, whose co-operation and continuous inspiration have played a major role in my academic carrier. I offer my sincere thanks to them.

Special thanks to Mr. Kannan for providing me with assistance when I needed it the most. Mr. Shelly provided me with invaluable help during the crucial last stages of the work.

Finally, my heartfelt gratitude to my wife, Mrs. Z. Mohammadi, and my children, Mohadese and Mohammad, without whose persistent support, this research would not have been possible. I am also indebted to all my relatives for their love and affection.
