ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The writing of a thesis can be a lonely and isolating experience. But this is a journey that one probably undertakes once in a lifetime and so every effort goes into making it memorable. Some memories are sweet, some sour. This thesis is the result of five years of work and it has been an inspiring, often exciting, sometimes challenging, but always interesting and an unforgettable experience. It has indeed been a privilege to have had the good wishes, blessings, companionship and advice of many people. I now take this opportunity to express my gratitude to all of them. This seems to be almost an impossible task, given that many people have helped me to design, implement, criticise and apply the work, while others who contributed in their own way. I am going to try anyway.

Firstly, I would like to express my deep and sincere gratitude to my supervisor, Prof. Prabhat Patnaik. I could not have imagined having a better advisor for my Ph.D. The thesis would not have been possible without his kind support, the trenchant critiques and the probing questions posed by him. He has been an inspiration at every step of this thesis work. Words are not sufficient to thank him for the support he gave me despite his busy schedule.

I am thankful to the members of the faculty at the Centre for Economic Studies & Planning, JNU, especially Prof. C. P. Chandrasekhar, Prof. Jayati Ghosh, Prof. Sugato Dasgupta, Prof. Krishnendu Ghosh Dastidar, Dr. Praveen Jha and Dr. Vikas Rawal for their valuable guidance and encouragement.

I thank Mr. Bisht, Mr. Tanwar and Rajesh at our Centre Office for their tremendous support. I am thankful to the staff of the JNU Central Library and Exim Bank (JNU) Library for their cooperation.
I am thankful to the University Grants Commission for providing me with the Junior Research Fellowship which helped me immensely.

I am extremely thankful to my senior, Surya Bhushan and Sovan, a fellow Ph.D student and a long time friend for helping me with the data.

Friends have been my constant source of sustenance throughout. I have been fortunate to come across many friends, without whom life would be bleak. They are all confidants through times, good and bad. Firstly I would like to thank those closest to me, whose presence helped me make the completion of this thesis possible. Special thanks to Praba, who is more like an elder brother to me and to his wife, Sonal, for their constant encouragement and support. Words are not enough to thank Sarmila for her ever-present support and for making me laugh as often as she could.

Life in a residential university is fun and the times spent with friends helped me to unwind from the rigours of the thesis work. The stay at Sutlej Hostel has been truly memorable. I will always look back with fond memories and relish the thought of those wonderful days. The times spent at Ganga Dhaba with Praba, Bibek, Neeraj, Samar, Vijay, Jassi, Raman, Balendra, Rajiv over umpteen cups of tea and coffee was truly enjoyable. They were also very much part of the frequent get-togethers we had in our hostel rooms. It was also a pleasure to have seniors like Somda, Soumenda, Indrada, Arjitda, Bhushanda for at least some part of my stay in Sutlej Hostel.

Some other friends, like Sourabh, Debu, Sreoshi, Shabana, Anirban, Sonal and Kalpana were always there for the occasional movies and dinners. I also thank my friends, Devrupa, Swati, Arpita, Dia, Manisha, Sarbani, Sambit, Saugata, Debopam, for their encouragement and contributing in many ways to keep me going.
Words are not enough to thank Gargee for her love and encouragement throughout this entire journey. She not only helped me with the discussions, presentation and design of this thesis work but has also been a strong critic, and deserves kudos for pointing out the fault lines in the thesis, which helped me immensely to improve my work. It is fair to say that without her I would have struggled to find the inspiration and motivation needed to complete this thesis.

Where would I be without my family, especially my mother? She deserves special mention for her encouragement and prayers. She is the one who raised me single-handedly and without her caring and love it would not be possible for me to reach this far. I am also thankful to my didibhai, Nibedita who has been a pillar of support for me throughout my life. When everything seems lost, she is the only person I turn to, for she never fails to come up with a solution. Special thanks to my brother-in-law, Gautam who has always been an inspiration to me. Love to my nephew, Neil for his adulation and respect, and who through his own special way helped me to complete this journey. I am also thankful to my cousin, Rajiv, my grandmother, and all other relatives for their understanding and endless love.
