When I got the topic “Border Management and National Security Problems” for my PhD research I felt myself as a soldier ready to do or die for my country. Today I feel so proud and this all is possible because of my teacher (Supervisor) who helped and gave me the permission to do my research on this topic. Pursuing a PhD work is more than just learning the scientific facts and obtaining the scientific findings and conclusions presented in the thesis. A PhD work should help in building up scientific and analytical thinking, learning to study everything with a critical eye and developing a strong attitude. My supervisor directed me to realise that and to develop these skills. All that without asking for anything in return makes me owe you a lot.

It is great pleasure express my sincere gratitude to all those that genuinely express the depth of my gratitude to the people whose efforts have made this thesis come tangible and those who have helped me during the course of this investigation. I feel this is pride and privilege to express my deep sense of gratitude to my supervisor Dr. Sanjay Bhardwaj for his excellent guidance. His critical comments and suggestions at different stages helped me to sharpen the ideas. He was my source of inspiration all along the course of study and investigation. He has always acted as a friendly and brotherly figure when I was at difficult conditions. His personal interest on my work and moral encouragement motivated me to complete this Herculean task on me. He provided an opportunity and ambience to learn many things and practice at JNU. It was a wonderful experience in terms of academic excellence. I shall carry the memory of my relation with him during this doctoral programme forever.

I am also grateful to all faculty members, classmates and friends at the Jawaharlal Nehru University for their contribution to my insight extension. I have learned a remarkable amount from them through discussions either in or outside the class room given helpful tips regarding doing research. I am grateful to the faculty of my centre for nurturing my interest in the study of “border management and national security.” I am very thankful to their suggestions and advices.

I am greatly indebted to all of my Professors: Prof. SD Muni, Prof. C Raja Mohan, Prof. P Sahadevan, Prof. IN Mukharjee, Prof. MP Lama, Prof. Uma Singh and Prof. Partha Ghosh, for their invaluable blessings and comments regarding my research work. I am also especially thankful to some professors and eminent scholars in Bangladesh for their critically comment on the research. Their in-depth discussion forced me to rethink my research and gave a new insight to my PhD work. They are: (1) Prof. Imtiaz Ahmed, Prof. CA Abrar, Prof. Amen Mohsin, Prof. Uma Salema Begam; (2) Ambasadór Waliur Rahaman, Foreign Secretary Farooq Sobhan; (3) Dr. Rahentulha, Diretor, Road Transport Project, SAARC, Dr. Abdur Rab Khan and Dr. Humayun Kabir, Director & Deputy Director BISS; (4) Dr. Zaid Bakht, Dr. Aimun Nishant and Prof. Rashid Ahmed. There are still some very important teachers who are my real inspiration reached at this stage are mainly my school and college teachers. Philosophers and many eminent scholars said “the pillar of the building of the “future” starts from the school time itself.” My school, the Chakradharpur High School, is one of the oldest schools in Orissa. It stands just in-front of my house. Therefore I was inspired by my teachers since those days. One of my Primary School teacher Mr. Dayitari Parida, whom I took as my “Life Guru” taught me about some universal truths those will never-ever change no matter how many time the universe changes. Some teacher particularly Mrs. Sornomayee Tripathi who scolded and sent me to apply in Utkal University for MA and I think that was the biggest turning point in my life. Some other teachers like Mr. S Singh and Mr. Bibhuti Tripathi and all other teachers have always blessing on me and thanks all of them from the deepest corner of my heart. Then I reached the heaven, my loving JNU.

My childhood friends like Bikrant Bhuiyana (Muna), Nevedita Nayak (Mani), Nachiketa, Chitendra Senapati, Gettanjali, Sanjukta, Ullash and many more, who directly or indirectly were always in my heart and encouraged me. After the School life when I joined the Paradeep Port-Trust College, first time I could realise the real shape of the world. I felt myself very matured. My college friends particularly Rosalin Swain (Rosy), Promod Biswal and Sagarika Parida (Tiki) and especially Rosy who once told me “one-day you will be in a very high social status.” My friends like Deepak Das (who was used to be the topper with his own confident and hard labour for which I always inspired by him), Raghunath Mundaiy (Raghu), Smita Sahoo, Soyamprva, Julli, Manish, Manoj and so many other friends. I highly thank them from the deepest corner of my heart. And a special thanks to Raghu, Vijay, Kamal, Pramod and Rosy for their unconditional love, courage and blessings.

I acknowledge with pleasure the ICSSR, New Delhi for granting me the prestigious “Doctoral Fellowship for the year 2006-2007” for one of the best research topics during the source of my research. This immensely helped me to pursue my research work sincerely.
At the same time, I thank the staffs of JNU Library, Tinmuryt Library, IDSA Library, National Archives, South Asia Documentary Centre, South Asia Foundation, Parliament Library, DELNET, Dhaka University Library, Bangladesh National Archives, Dhaka Public Library and many more libraries for their enormous help and assistance.

Last, but not least, no word of mine can adequately express my indebtedness to my parents and family members whose blessings and constant encouragement keep my aim always high. I thank my family: my parents, Mr. Daitary Sahoo and Mrs. Saraswati Sahoo, for giving me life, for educating me with aspects from both arts and sciences, for unconditional support and encouragement to pursue my interests, even when the interests went beyond boundaries of language, field and geography. My elder brother Mr. Pravat Sahoo, who always helped me to keep studying as much as possible though later he got changed but still I am very much thankful to him. My younger brother Prakash, who really helped me on time not only with monetary assistance but also assuring me to take care up our parents in my absence which gave me courage and dare to continue my study at JNU. He is very proud of me as his brother pursuing PhD at India’s prestigious and number one University.

I also thank our only sister Sasmita (Julli) for her unconditional love to me respecting my friends and accepting my associate with them. With this research I am going to find out one of the oldest bilateral problem between two countries of India and Bangladesh. Both the countries got partitioned in 1947 with the division of Indian subcontinent by British. Because of the unscientific creation of border a big confusion has been occurring in between two countries and millions of people have been suffering. This investigation would be very helpful to resolve that edge-old unsolved border issue.

I hope that this study may be very helpful to those who are interested in understanding the border problems including border management and national security problems.

......and I believe that sincere, honest and hard labour always triumphs.....
