CONTENTS

Acknowledgements iii

List of Tables viii

List of Graphs ix

Abbreviations x - xiii

CHAPTER I: INTRODUCTION 1-44
  1.1. Introduction 1-6
  1.2. Electric Power Privatisation 6-17
  1.3. Significance of the Study 17-22
  1.4. Review of Literature 22-38
  1.5. Scope and Objectives 38-40
  1.6. Hypotheses 41-41
  1.7. Sources and Methodology 41-42
  1.8. Chapterisation 42-44

CHAPTER II: POWER SECTOR DEVELOPMENT IN HISTORICAL PERSPECTIVE 45-115
  2.1. Introduction 45-46
  2.2. Indian Scenario 46-76
    2.2.1. Growth of Electric Power 57-76
      2.2.1.1. Electricity Installed Capacity 57-59
      2.2.1.2. Electricity Generation 59-61
      2.2.1.3. Transmission System 61-65
      2.2.1.4. Pattern of Electricity Consumption 65-68
      2.2.1.5. Per Capita Generation and Consumption 68-70
      2.2.1.6. Rural Electrification 70-75
      2.2.1.7. Number of Consumers 75-76
  2.3. Constraints in the Indian Power Sector 76-82
  2.4. Pakistan Scenario 82-102
    2.4.1. Growth of Electric Power 86-102
      2.4.1.1. Electricity Installed Capacity 86-91
      2.4.1.2. Electricity Generation 91-93
      2.4.1.3. Transmission System 93-94
      2.4.1.4. Pattern of Electricity Consumption 94-96
      2.4.1.5. Per Capita Generation and Consumption 96-97
      2.4.1.6. Rural Electrification 97-100
      2.4.1.7. Number of Consumers 100-102
  2.5. Problems in the Pakistan Power Sector 102-106
  2.6. Comparative Analysis 106-115
CHAPTER III: PRIVATISATION OF POWER SECTOR: THE CURRENT SCENARIO

3.1. Introduction 116-116
3.2. Privatisation of Indian Power Sector 116-155
  3.2.1. Broad Feature of the Policy on Private Power Development 118-122
  3.2.2. Policies in Detail 123-128
  3.2.3. Mega Power Policy 128-130
  3.2.4. Captive Power Policy 130-131
  3.2.5. Power Purchase Agreement 131-134
  3.2.6. Escrow- the Guarantee Mechanism 134-135
  3.2.7. Renovation & Modernisation 135-136
  3.2.8. Recent Power Policy Development 136-139
  3.2.9. Privatisation of Distribution 139-153
    3.2.9.1. Orissa Power Sector Reform 140-141
    3.2.9.2. Haryana Power Sector Reform 141-142
    3.2.9.3. Andhra Pradesh Power Sector Reform 142-144
    3.2.9.4. Delhi Power Sector Reform 144-145
    3.2.9.5. Gujarat Power Sector Reform 145-146
    3.2.9.6. Karnataka Power Sector Reform 146-147
    3.2.9.7. Madhya Pradesh Power Sector Reform 148-149
    3.2.9.8. Maharashtra Power Sector Reform 149-151
    3.2.9.9. Rajasthan Power Sector Reform 151-152
    3.2.9.10. Power Sector Reform in Other States 152-153
  3.2.10. Role of International Agencies in India 153-154
  3.2.11. IPP Funding in India 154-155
3.3. Privatisation of Pakistan Power Sector 156-190
  3.3.1. Private Power Policy in Pakistan 158-165
  3.3.2. Transmission Policy for Private Sector 165-168
  3.3.3. Hydel Policy of 1995 168-172
  3.3.4. The 1998 Power Policy in Pakistan 172-177
  3.3.5. Recent Power Policy Development 177-184
  3.3.6. Role of International Agencies in Pakistan 184-189
  3.3.7. IPP Financing in Pakistan 189-190
  3.4. Comparative Analysis 190-199

CHAPTER IV: PRIVATE SECTOR RESPONSE TO CURRENT POWER POLICY 200-287
4.1. Introduction 200-200
4.2. Indian Private Sector Response to Power Policy 200-236
  4.2.1. Growth in Electricity Installed Capacity 201-208
  4.2.2. Growth in Electricity Generation 209-210
  4.2.3. Plant Load Factor 211-212
  4.2.4. Privatisation of Transmission and Distribution 212-213
  4.2.5. Role Played by the Regulatory Commissions 213-216
  4.2.6. Acquisitions in IPP 217-219
  4.2.7. Employment 219-219