ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I wholeheartedly thank my guide Dr. Kamalesh Chaudhury, who dealt with me with great patience throughout the entire period that I required to complete this thesis. There were difficult times when I gave up the thoughts of completing the work. However, even a little conversation with Dr. Chaudhury always motivated me to start afresh in full swing. The completion of this thesis is totally attributed to thoughtful guidance of Dr. Chaudhury.

I also thank Dr. Leena Deshpande of S.N.D.T. Women's University who directed my to Dr. Chaudhury to seek her guidance. Dr. Deshpande had taught me basic skills of research during the course of M.Ed. It helped me a lot while completing this study. I will always remain indebted to her for her help and support.

I would like to express deep gratitude to my parents who motivated me to pursue this degree. They always stood by me very firmly and helped me in every phase of life. Without their love and support it was nearly impossible for me to complete my thesis. My younger brother Deepak helped me in internet browsing and in computerization of some text matter. I thank both my brothers for their help. I also thank my husband Dr. Rajendra Ramteke for he always reminded me of my unfinished work and assisted me in many tasks.

The vital part of the present study is experimentation in the school. Our former principal Mrs. Smita Panse and at present, Mrs. Medha Pandit allowed me to carry out the experimentation in S.P.M. English School, Pune. I thank Mrs. Panse and Mrs. Pandit for their co-operation and for the great interest that they have always shown in my academic achievements.

Reference work is indispensable for any research work. It was made possible for me through the library facilities at S.N.D.T. College Library, Pune, and our very own library of S.P.M. English School, Pune.
Mrs. Sunita Tandale and Mrs. Kajarekar, both the sisters helped me not only in bringing out the typescript of this thesis but also in every possible way. Their brother Mr. Sunil has also helped me despite his busy schedule. I remain deeply indebted to them and to my student Sarika Tandale.

I cannot ignore the enthusiastic participation of my students of Std. VII in S.P.M. English School. They co-operated with me very well throughout the year. I am very thankful to all my students.

The arrival of my son Yash, in Feb. 2004, enriched me with new energy of life and gave me a boost to accomplish my task. He made me think of life as more meaningful than ever before and rekindled the hope of completing this work. So, I thank my little one, too!
