ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

At the outset, it is my duty to remember the most exalted Creator who has created lives and who pays attention to them always, who has the highest of best characteristics such as omniscience, beneficence and justice; therefore thanks to Creator who guides us by giving rational power and by showing the best way in mutual living.

This research was spread for about three years. During this period necessary help was rendered to me by several persons in different says. It is my solemn duty to express my sincere thanks to all of them.

I would like to express my sincere gratitude to the society of my country that has attained high level of civility, the best human culture and powerful beliefs; in fact, it has been supporting us with these; in this case I would like to thank my colleagues at the Iranian universities in which I have taught and my good students that provided me to develop my studies, and my coworkers at the Social Security Investment Company for their scientific and experienced interactive cooperation in affecting mutual and gradual perfection.

I would like to express my deepest appreciation to my supervisor Professor Dr. R. K. Parchure for his invaluable guidance and advice, excellent encouragement and patience throughout my research program; also for his kindly help and support to me during my stay in India; I thank him for his willingness to hear my demands when I came across hardships during the study; Furthermore, I like to thank his good assistants for their generous cooperation.

I acknowledge the University of Pune and Department of Education in Ministry of Human Research and Development, Govt. of India for approval of this research. I was very lucky to be associated with the Chancellor of the University, the Dean, the Head, and faculty members of Department of Economics of University of Pune who provided facilities during the study. I am particularly grateful to the staff of Department of Economics, PhD and academic sections and other sub sections of this University for their invaluable assistance during the process of work.

I am also extremely thankful to the some faculties and librarian staff of the National Insurance Academy (NIA) and the Gokhale Institute of Politics and Economics, for their useful consultations and excellent cooperation. I am also deeply indebted to Dr. A. N. Mali, an English teacher whose good suggestions changed the style of some sentences; he is kind enough to read the whole chapters of my dissertation.

During the study, some experts of Iranian Investment Companies provided me the data and filled in the questionnaires. It was possible to complete this study only due to their cooperation and assistance. I owe my sincere thanks to all of them.

I am indebted to all my teachers from the first till now, especially my nice father who gave me culture of study, and also my good classmates and close friends who have scientifically discussed and have built my scientific curiosity during of the stages of my development.

I am extremely obliged to my great love and my blessings go to my wonderful wife, Mrs. Fatemeh Kohgard for her sacrifice and companionship during the hard times of the study to complete my task. I must specially thank my lovely children, Mrs Tahereh and Mr Ahmad for their understanding and patience during my studies. They would forgive me because I have paid less attention to them and used the time for concentration on my studies. They tolerated our homesickness and living abroad.

I sincerely appreciate my nice sisters and brothers and my good in-laws for their great support. Their love is a great source of inspiration for our living abroad. Last but not the least; I cannot forget the kindness and encouragement of my parents Mr. Abdolseyed Rahdari and Mrs. Iran Rezai, and parents of my wife Mr. Jahanbaz Kohgard Mrs. Maryam Rahdari who have always encouraged me in every successful step of my life.

Finally Many thanks to good Indian people for their nice hospitality, I consider my self very fortunate to have a good society; I express my sincere gratitude for its constant cooperation through out the research work.
