ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS.

It is a great pleasure to acknowledge gratefully the help received from persons and institutions in the course of this study. First and foremost, I am profoundly grateful to Dr. Y. B. Damle, without whose expertise and able guidance the completion of this thesis could not have been accomplished. If there is anything worthwhile in the pages that follow, it is due to him only, the imperfections in the work are due to me alone. I would not be exaggerating if I say that I have no words to express my deep sense of gratitude to him.

The thesis would not have been possible but for the kindly and benevolent help of the University Grants Commission, the Poona University and the Deccan College Authorities, who provided me with scholarships. I have also to thank the Librarian and his staff in Deccan College, who went sometimes, out of their professional calling in providing me with facilities during the course of my research.
I wish to express my sincere appreciation to all the Graduate women, the subjects of the present study, who gave generously their time by discussing with me about the problem and also by filling out the lengthy questionnaire. I am also appreciative of the degree of co-operation and help demonstrated by the Heads of various departments in allowing their staff members to fill-in the questionnaire.

I am also thankful to Prof. V.G. Pundalik, who helped me in checking the questionnaire and S.D. Sardesai, who helped me in the formulation of the code.

Among the numerous friends, who helped me in more than many ways special mention should be made to Dr. P.H. Reddy and Shri Y.N. Gholap for their help and encouragement given to me.

Finally I would like to express my deep felt appreciation to my husband without whose understanding, encouragement and help it would have been impossible for me to finish the thesis.
I cannot fail to mention my children - Krishna and Gayatri, for bearing with me what I was busy on the job of field work for this thesis. Special mention may be made about my daughter, Gayatri, who patiently did all the proof reading of the typed copies.
