ACKNOWLEDGMENT

I am deeply beholden to my revered Guru, Dr. Mrs. Sobhana Cokhale, Department of Archaeology, Deccan College, Poona-6, under whose able guidance this research work has been completed. The keen interest she has shown in the subject as well as in the day to day progress of my work has indeed encouraged and enabled me to complete this work in time. She has always been prompt in her guidance. I am deeply indebted to her painstaking efforts, patience and able guidance without which this task would not have been possible for me.

I am grateful to Prof. H.D. Sankalia, the pioneer of this type of study in India, and to all the learned scholars who have worked in the historical and cultural geography and ethnography of various parts of India.

I express my profound gratitude to Dr. P.V. Parabrahma Sastry, Deputy Director (Retired), Department of Archaeology and Museums, Hyderabad for giving me correct reading and interpretation of some of the place and personal names. He has been extremely kind to share with me his vast experience in the field of epigraphical research, particularly in the Sanskrit and Telugu inscriptions. I do gratefully acknowledge his valuable suggestions and corrections.

I am deeply indebted to Prof. S.H. Ritti, Professor and Head of the Department of Ancient Indian History and Epigraphy, Karnatak University, Dharwar, for his kindness in spending so much of his precious time, in spite of his busy schedule, to give me relevant meaning and interpretations of some of the obscure Kannada names. I am very much obliged to him for having obliged me kindly and promptly whenever I approached him.

I deem it a pleasure to record my deep debt of gratitude to Dr. S.S. Ramachandra Murthy, Assistant Epigraphist, Chief Epigraphist's Office, Mysore, for having gone through the date of this thesis to verify the reading, for having given me appropriate meaning and practical suggestions, and also for having placed at my disposal his thesis on “The Study of Telugu Place-Names” from which I have profitted very much.

My sincere thanks are due to Prof. S.B. Deo, Professor and Head of the Department of Archaeology, Deccan College, for extending all the required facilities to complete this work. I express my gratitude to all the members of the Staff of the Departments of Archaeology and Linguistics, to the Library and Office Staff, Deccan College, Room-6, for their kind co-operation.

It would be a failure in my duty if I do not express my gratitude towards the Staff of the Osmania University Library, Library of the State Department of Archaeology and Museums, Hyderabad -1, Karnataka University Library, and the Library of the Chief Epigraphist's Office, Mysore-5, for their kind co-operation.

I would like to express my gratitude to the University Grants Commission for allotting me a Fellowship which has financially enabled me to proceed with this work.

Finally, I am grateful to Mr. L. K. Nalbansingh, Instructor in Stenography, Queen Mary's Technical School for Disabled Ex-Servicemen, Kirkee, for undertaking the tedious job of typing this thesis which he has done quickly, perfectly and neatly.
